

GERALD R. FORD JR.

Impeachment for Douglas If...

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Top Republicans once again are looking for grounds to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. If the Senate "sets up new ethical standards" by rejecting the pending court nomination of Clement Haynsworth Jr., they may conclude they have found them.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford insisted he was not trying to influence either the Senate debate, starting next week, or the eventual Senate vote on confirmation of Haynsworth, expected to be close.

Ford told newsmen Friday, however, he had instigated a fresh search of information with a view to possible impeachment action against the 71-year-old Douglas, who has regularly incurred the wrath of conservatives almost since his appointment to the high court in 1939.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., circulated a draft minority report of the Senate Judiciary Committee Friday in which he accused Haynsworth of a lack of candor in testimony about off-bench financial affairs, as well as an unintentional violation of law requiring reports on a profit-sharing trust he administered.

The Senate is expected to begin debate next Wednesday or Thursday on Haynsworth, chief judge of the U.S. 4th

Circuit Court of Appeals. The charges against him are primarily that he violated judicial ethics by ruling on cases involving companies in which he had a financial interest.

Impeachment proceedings are difficult and involved, and can be brought only on the constitutional grounds of "treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors." The House initiates the impeachment proceedings, and the Senate acts as a sort of jury.

"There is a strong feeling not only in Congress but in the country that if the United States Senate does establish new ethical standards for Supreme Court nominees, then these same standards ought to be applicable to sitting members," Ford told reporters.

Talk of impeachment is old stuff to Douglas, the court's most outspoken and consistent liberal, who has drawn frequent criticism not only for his official and unofficial views and opinions but also for his four marriages, his frequent travels abroad, his mountain climbing and other extra-curricular activities.

Nothing has come of the talk, although one House member went so far as to introduce an impeachment resolution—which went nowhere—after Douglas in 1953 stayed the execution of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

In 1966, the thrice-divorced Douglas, then 67, took a fourth wife, who like No. 3 was aged 23. Five House members formally asked the Judiciary Committee to investigate his "moral character" in view of charges involved in his earlier separations.

Most recently, there was considerable impeachment talk when it was learned Douglas drew $12,000 a year as president of the Albert Parvin Foundation, which got financial support from Parvin Dohrman, a hotel supply firm with links to Las Vegas interests. He resigned the post.

Muskie to Senate: Nixon Fumbled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has berated President Nixon for making public Nixon's confidential letter from Ho Chi Minh while keeping secret his timetable for withdrawing U.S. troops from Vietnam. Muskie said Nixon was wrong on both counts.

In a speech read before a nearly empty Senate chamber Friday afternoon, the 1968 Democratic vice presidential candidate contended that Nixon, in his nationwide address Monday, left the decision as to when American troops will come home up to Hanoi and Saigon.

He said Nixon muffed an opportunity to seize upon the letter he received three days before Ho's death Aug. 18 and chance of using it as the basis for further correspondence, in foreign hands, he said.

"I cannot see how the goal of a negotiated peace is promoted by the publication of private activity or the speed of South Vietnam's military growth," he said. "At the same time, by refusing to make public the U.S. American forces is out of our withdrawal timetable, the President left the ultimate decision in foreign hands, he said. "If withdrawal depends upon the level of Communist activity or the speed of South Vietnam's military growth," he said. "At the same time, by refusing to make public the U.S. American forces is out of our withdrawal timetable, the President left the ultimate decision in foreign hands, he said. "If withdrawal depends upon the level of Communist activity or the speed of South Vietnam's military growth," he said. "At the same time, by refusing to make public the U.S. American forces is out of our withdrawal timetable, the Pres-

Nixon said in his speech that Ho's letter "flatly rejected my initiative."

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, agreed with Muskie and said "Ho's remark left the door wide open."

Ho's letter, Muskie noted, did not call the National Liberation Front's program "the only basis for settlement" of the war—the Communists' usual line. Instead, Ho called it "a logical and reasonable basis for the settlement of the Vietnamese problem," a change of language that Muskie found significant.

"It seems to me," Muskie said, "that this reply invited a further communication from us to Ho's successors." But making the letter public, he said, may have jeopardized the

Reds Down 2 U.S. Copters

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops along the Cambodian border shot down two U. S. helicopters, shelled three American bases and tried to overrun a fourth outpost in fighting reported today.

The 'copters went down 69 and 90 miles northwest of Saigon Friday, killing one man and wounding one. A third was lost to ground fire southeast of Da Nang. Two crewmen were hurt.

The action, in what allied commanders have called the Communists' winter offensive, also included the second attack in as many nights against a South Vietnamese naval base on the far southern tip of the country.

There, military spokesmen said, the attackers were driven off Friday and left behind 15 dead against light allied losses. The previous night's attack had killed 27 government soldiers and wounded 98, with 75 guerrillas slain.

U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division soldiers weathered the three border shellings without casualties and threw back the ground attack this morning against Fire Base Jerry, one of a number of U.S. outposts hard by Cambodia 55 to 83 miles above Saigon. A total of three GIs were reported killed and 19 wounded in 39 overnight rocket or mortar attacks into U.S. or South Vietnamese military posts across the war zone.

Eight waves of B52 bombers came in today for raids up and down the Cambodian frontier, where 7,000 North Vietnamese are reported threatening allied bases all along the border north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said its men at Fire Base Jerry, along with some South Vietnamese troops, threw back the attackers in a one-hour battle. The North Vietnamese withdrew without leaving behind a body. Seven Americans were wounded.

Heaviest of the shelling attacks against the other three bases was a 100-round mortar barrage into Fire Base Ike, 63 miles north of Saigon. No casualties were reported.

The mortar and rocket salvos were among 22 overnight barrages reported by military spokesmen, a sharp drop from the 68 of the previous night, heaviest in two months.

According to the Allied border, the U.S. Command sent a total of seven flights of B52s over the 11 provinces surrounding Saigon overnight. In one of those provinces, 45 miles northeast of the capital, troops of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade reported killing 10 Viet Cong early today without a loss themselves.

Far to the north, near Hue, government officials expected to start digging Sunday for more bodies of Vietnamese civilians slain during the greatest Communist offensive of the war, the Tet Offensive in 1968. Officials said 2,600 bodies already have been found in mass graves.

Mystery of Lost Boy... The Parents Won't Talk

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Authorities drew a blank Friday when the mother of Jeffrey Lansdown, 8, and her common-law husband refused to answer questions at a Juvenile Court hearing called to determine the boy's whereabouts.

Jeffrey is the brother of 5-year-old Jody Fouquet, who was abandoned on a freeway near Bakersfield Oct. 25. The boy has been reported missing for several months.

"I do not know where he is," Deputy District Attorney John Stillman said as he left the courtroom after the two-hour closed hearing. "We know there is a Jeffrey. We have his birth certificate." Court sources said Mrs. Bett Fouquet, 26, and Ronald Fouquet, 31, gave only their names and addresses before pleading the Fifth Amendment.

They were brought here from Bakersfield, Calif., on a court order to answer the question, "Where is Jeffrey?" The Fouquets face charges in Bakersfield of child abuse and abandonment for allegedly leaving Jody on the freeway last month.

Judge Robert A. Wenke ordered the Fouquets to return to court Nov. 25 in a further effort to develop information on the boy. Stillman told newsmen the Nov. 25 hearing would be held to determine whether Mrs. Fouquet's children should be made court wards.

Billy Joe Lansdown, 35, Camas Valley, Ore., Mrs. Fouquet's former husband and the father of both Jody and Jeffrey, also appeared before Wenke. He testified he has not seen the boy since 1965, according to a sheriff's department spokesman. Lansdown said he had tried several times to get information on Jeffrey but had no success.

Mrs. Fouquet, eight months pregnant with her seventh child, was tight-lipped as she walked from the court flanked by deputies. Her eyes were red and swollen. Fouquet was handcuffed and held the man- acled hands in front of his face as he walked past photographers after the hearing.

When Jody was picked up by Kern County authorities, she told them her name was "Smith." However, a newspaper picture drew the attention of a former neighbor, who identified Mrs. Fouquet, a resident of suburban Bell Gardens, as her mother.

The Mayoral Campaign: Aftermath of a Landslide

ONE CAN'T really appreciate the magnitude of Frank Koenig's 3,900 landslide victory over Jim Tyrrell without taking a trip down to First Avenue.

The white Pontiac with the Poughkeepsie plates sits in front of the house, wet Fall leaves gradually settling on it. In the back seat are half-filled cartons of potholders with "Make Tyrrell Mayor" inscribed on them.

A crude wooden elephant with the same message in fading letters lies behind a bush.

Inside, the brash young man sits at the kitchen table smoking one cigarette after another. His hands are shaking. "My nerves are shot," he says. "It hit me on Wednesday."

He is bitter. "They sold me down the river. My own party sold me out. They horse-traded me all over this town. I never had a chance. I wish they'd beaten me in the primary. I worked like hell. I could have stayed home and gotten 3,100 votes. Johnny Bechtold got 1,500 more votes than I did." (C. John Bechtold polled 4,600 votes in an unsuccessful campaign against Mayor Garraghan in 1967. Tyrrell's basic campaign premise was that he would poll 1,500 more than Bechtold and win it.)

HE IS DISILLUSIONED. "This town is a closed corporation. An outsider can't break it."

Tyrrell lights another cigarette. "I don't know what I'm going to do. No job. It's going to cost a thousand bucks for that baby in January. (Tyrrell's wife is pregnant.) You know, they're not through with me yet. They're going to run me out of this town."

The party's over for Jim Tyrrell. But for Frank Koenig, it's just beginning. Koenig doesn't talk about his opponent.

He is a gracious victor. He didn't say much about him during the campaign except for occasional statements brought on by the proddings of the hawks in his party. "I didn't want to get into personalities at all," he told us at one point three weeks ago. "But the way he went after Garraghan. Some of the guys thought we had to do something."

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

KOENIG ISN'T given to analyzing the campaign. He won and that's it. Let the Republicans figure out what happened.

Perhaps what happened will ultimately restore the two-party system in Kingston. The real tragedy is not the defeat of Jim Tyrrell. He is but one man. The tragedy is a near death blow to the Republican party.

The enrollment is there, some 4,500 strong. But the leadership has been missing for a long time. The leaders are completely out of touch with their party. Jim Tyrrell's defeat merely proved the extent of that fact. The rank and file Republicans were not only opposed to him, they were afraid of him. They voted for Koenig in droves not even stopping to take a chance on Bernie Singer, the Conservative.

THE FUTURE for the Republican Party is indeed grim. It'll be a long time before they even put a dent in this town.

Koenig should be good for two terms if he plays his cards right and make no mistake, Frank Koenig is an excellent card player. He suffered through the bad Democratic years and saw the once powerful Republican party slowly disappear into the backroom. He's not about to let it happen to his party.

The Common Council is solid Democrat at 9-4 and could have easily been 13-0. Fred Harder lost by only three votes in the Ninth Ward. John Machione got the scare of his life in the Second Ward, beating Dan Cronan by only 12 votes. The Conservative vote put Bernie Sims over the top against Jim Madden in the 13th Ward. Brian Smith beat Joe Conlin in the Third Ward by less than 20 votes.

At-large running holds no fear for the new Democrats. They came out of the city with six of eight legislators.

As Bobby Gallo said, "The torch is passed." Perhaps it may light a fire under the city's other party.

THE PLANT—We're not about to steal the Green Thumb's job, but we'd like to say a few words about plants. Not the kind that grow in the ground, although this type of plant can be dirty. We're talking about the deliberate leaking of misinformation.

A number of ingredients are needed to insure that the plant matures into a widespread rumor. First, the story itself has to be plausible.

Try this. Mayor Garraghan is going to resign, in which case, Bobby Gallo, the alderman-at-large becomes mayor. Bobby then turns around and appoints Garraghan chairman of the urban renewal agency. That's plausible, especially since Scott Alexander, the chairman, resigned on Nov. 3. Day before election. Nifty timing, Scott.

Then you need a gullible newsman, or a dupe, or ideally, both.

TIMING IS IMPORTANT. You must place your plant within minutes of the newsman's deadline, allowing him only enough time to breathlessly hotfoot it back to his microphone with his "scoop."

Of course he doesn't check it out. He is the antithesis of the Now Generation. He has child-like faith in his elders, especially his elected officials. If you can't trust the mayor, whom can you trust?

But then the glow of victory wears off for the newsman and he follows up on the story. Odd. It doesn't check out. The facts are the mayor doesn't appoint an urban renewal chairman. The agency elects its own. Gallo doesn't know anything about the resignation and he's not about to make any deals, if it is true.

Teeth gnash. Phones ring. The whispering bird has flown. No doubt to assure the citizens that he was misquoted.

It was all a mistake, of course. Whom do you believe, the mayor or some rookie newscaster? How about the next time? And the time after that, and the time after that and . . .

What about The Freeman. No, we didn't have it. As we said, a number of ingredients are needed to insure that a plant matures into a widespread rumor . . . Gullibility is not our stock in trade.

Budgets Up in New Paltz, Gardiner

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ
The southern Ulster townships of New Paltz and Gardiner approved record budgets this week with fringe benefits for municipal employees proving to be primary contributing factors to the budgetary increases.

However, despite the increases—18 per cent in New Paltz and 12 per cent in Gardiner—officials in both towns do not anticipate discernable increases in the tax rate.

On Wednesday night, the New Paltz Town Board adopted a budget totaling $295,081 for 1970, following a brief public hearing attended by about 20 taxpayers. Since the anticipated revenues and the unexpended balance totals $88,567, this leaves $206,514 to be raised by taxation.

According to Town of New Paltz Supervisor, Anthony Moriello, the increase is largely attributable to an $11,000 contribution to state health insurance and retirement funds for town employees.

Other factors contributing to the record allocation are expenditures for new highway equipment and a $6,500 allocation for a full-time building inspector.

Morello said, however, that despite the increase, the tax rate should remain about the same because of an anticipated increase in the assessed valuation of the town.

On Thursday night, the Gardiner Town Board rejected a move to cut a sizable amount from their $119,973.45 preliminary budget and went on to adopt the record budget following a lengthy public hearing.

However, despite the fact that the approved budget represented a $14,000 increase in expenditures over last year's appropriations only $66,186.56, a $2,969.10 increase, will have to be raised through taxation.

This discrepancy arises from the fact that the town board discovered a $10,000 bonus in unexpended appropriations.

The proposed budget cuts, submitted by Town Justice Warren McDowell, totaled $10,000 and pertained to a variety of areas, most prominently recreation and salaries.

After lengthy discussion, the board rejected McDowell's cuts and approved the entire preliminary budget minus a $500 appropriation designated for senior citizen programs.

Gardiner Supervisor, George Majestic, said he was quite sure that there would be no increase in the town's tax rate despite the budgetary increases.

As in New Paltz, the most substantial increase was derived from contribution to the state for health insurance and retirement funds for municipal employees.

New York City Firm Pays $70,000 For Wilbur Ave. Cigar Company

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
The J. B. Back Co., Inc., a cigar-making firm in Kingston for more than 60 years, has been sold to a well-known mail-order tobacco firm in New York City, Wally Frank Ltd., which has had retail shops in various city locations for many years.

The sale, which reportedly amounted to close to $70,000, was recorded in the office of County Clerk Albert Spada, Nov. 3. The Back firm, known as one of the largest private label cigar manufacturing firms in the world, is located on Wilbur Avenue in the old Kingston School No. 1. The Frank firm is located at 132-136 Church Street, New York City.

Mrs. Blanche Back, who has served as president of the Kingston firm for the past year, will continue to operate the facility for the Frank firm. An official joint announcement of the sale and plans for the firm's operation will be made in the near future.

The Back Company originated in Kingston in 1923 when the city was the second largest custom cigar manufacturing city in the east. It now remains the one and only machine custom cigar manufacturing company in New York State.

Having boasted Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Jack Benny as customers, it has survived the dissolution of time by "doing things the other fellow didn't want to do," i.e. making four-foot cigars.

WIFE & CHILDREN

Today the aromas of Back's brought the Back Company to 41 blends float across the ocean on liners, through the skies via firm's originator, J. B. Back, a United Airlines and in the inner sanctums of the Harcard and Liderkrantz Clubs.

It was the persuasiveness of a Kingston trainmaster that During a layover in Kingston, the trainmaster suggested to Back that he locate in the Catskills instead. Back, who had stepped off the train, never got back on.

His son Charles, who served as president of the firm for a number of years explains that the firm's success was found in its ability to remain creative. No order, no matter how unusual went unchallenged. The four-foot cigar was a good example. Ordered by the Chicago Liar's Club, it was fashioned of burlap, wire coat hangers and covered with real tobacco leaves.

Another unusual order called for delivery of 300 cigars wrapped in cedar and imprinted with green. Each was wrapped in green foil and attached to a placecard for a St. Patrick's Day dinner in Connecticut.

Not all orders have been so intricate for Back cigars, whether panatela, rex or grana-da may be found in politician's pockets, in cardboard five packs or in boxes on counters of Howard Johnson Thruway Restaurants. Made with tobacco from Honduras, Mexico, Brazil, Paraguay and the Dominican Republic, the cigars are entirely of natural materials with no synthetics used.

The 61 foot by 122 foot rink will be located at the Marbletown Park. It will greatly extend the year-round activities offered through the town recreation commission. During the summer a record number of children received swimming instruction at the park.

Hijacker Is a Hero To Folks Back Home

ROME (UPI)—At least one Italian girl has proposed marriage, a film company wants to tell his story and a small-town mayor thinks he should be released for the publicity he got Trans World Airlines.

More and more Italians are proclaiming Lance Cpl. Raffaele Minichiello a hero for his California - to - Rome hijacking feat one week ago.

The United States wants him back to face air piracy charges, which could bring him the death penalty. Italy has charged him with eight crimes that could land him in prison for a total of 30 years.

A 17-year-old girl in Minichiello's former home town, Melito Irpino, offered to marry him Friday because, she said, "He's even better than Giuliano Gemma," star of Italian western films.

The reason, she said, is "because he played a real life role, while Gemma does only films. They ought to give him a pension. He has been to Vietnam and he deserves it. I would like to marry him."

The Morgan Film Co. announced Friday two of his writers already have finished the script for the hijack story, entitled "Paisa", Perche' M'Arresti?"—Minichiello's words at his capture.

Translated into English, it means, "Countryman, why are you arresting me?"

The mayor of Melito Irpino said Friday that TWA ought to press for the young Marine's release.

"Raffaele's action is unprecedented advertising for those gentlemen," said Gennaro Capasso. "It was an unprecedented show of efficiency (by TWA). They shouldn't seek

The car was termed a "total wreck" by village police. There were no summonses issued. Emmanuel Jordan, the driver, claimed to have been blinded by lights.

PERSPIRATION STAIN PROBLEMS

In our modern civilization the best soaps, deodorants and laundry equipment are available yet body odor and perspiration stained clothing remain a problem, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Sometimes perspiration stained clothing is unavoidable; here are some tips on how to treat washable clothing stained by perspiration. Where the fabric color has changed, but the stain is still fresh, sponge it with diluted ammonia; if the stain is old sponge it with vinegar. Sometimes just moistening the stained area with water and holding it over an open bottle of ammonia is enough; the fumes may restore the color. Afterwards rinse the garment and launder as usual in hot suds. If after this treatment the perspiration stain doesn't disappear, try applying a mild detergent full strength. If the stain persists then try dampening and sprinkling it with pepsin; (sold at drug stores) let it stay for an hour then brush the powder off and launder the garment as usual.

If there is persistent odor from the garment, try sponging the area with a colorless mouth wash, then relauder. Stains which are caused by some of the cream, stick or spray deodorants can be removed by laundering in warm suds. An oily base deodorant can be removed by sponging with a cleaning solvent, followed by warm suds. Be sure to wash out perspiration and deodorants before pressing because heat "sets" the stain and the odor.

The gown featured a chapel length train, and the full-length sleeves and high neckline were banded with self lace. Bone satin ribbon marked the Empire waistline. Her soulder length silk illusion veil was secured to a headpiece of hand-rolled illusion petals. The bride carried a white Bible, covered with white bridal roses, stephanotis and ivy, with stephanotis streamers.

Miss Susan Wilkins, sister of the bride, 9 Commonwealth Avenue, Springfield, Vt., served as maid of honor. Jean Vandemark, Millers Lane Extension, Kingston; and Nancy Guski, sister of the bride, Fraleigh Street, Red Hook, were attendants. They wore gowns of deep turquoise organza over taffeta, featuring Empire bodices, boat necklines and poet's sleeves. Gold and bone brocaded ribbon accented the waistlines. Their headpieces were of matching turquoise nylon tulle bows with circular Miss Eileen Shields of Stone Ridge was the bride's maid of honor; Thomas Rediker of Stone Ridge was the best man. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Richard T. Willis of Middletown.

The bride is a June 1969 graduate of Rondout Valley Central High School and is now attending New York University. The groom has served with the U. S. Army Paratroopers in Vietnam and is now a student at Orange County Community College, Middletown.

Collegians and the March

When the managers of the mid-November March on Washington speak of mobilizing a million persons—men, and women, young and old, but mostly young college students—it is well to remember that the enrollment in the nation's colleges and universities is now 7,750,000. Even if the whole million marchers came from the nation's campuses, they would be only one in seven and a half of their peers. It is fair to presume the other 6 1/2 million are not moved to march on Washington.

Of course, there will not be a million marchers. And if there are, they won't consist of a million collegians—we have seen how their ranks have been infiltrated by extremists of all kinds, each with his own reason for joining the demonstration. Those in the line of march have a lot of venom to get off their chests and this gives them an opportunity to do so. And a great many will come for the ride, the fun of being part of a big crowd, and the excitement it generates.

With all the violence on the campuses, it is significant that again this year, there was an increase in the enrollments. One would think that the riots would discourage youngsters from seeking an education, when they know it might be fraught with rancor and outrage that have little or nothing to do with getting an education.

Dr. Garland G. Parker, University of Cincinnati vice provost for admissions and records, who keeps track of college and university enrollments from year to year, reports that there was a 3.3 per cent increase this year over last, that 7,125,000 will be in degree-credit curricula and about 625,900 in general education and occupational programs not generally credited toward degrees.

Freshmen enrollment was up four per cent, but collegiate enrollments, especially for freshmen, were somewhat restricted by the limitations and delays in the implementation of the Federal financial aid program for this academic year. Even at that, and the riots, too, more Americans are seeking a higher education this academic year than ever before. And comparatively few are concerned about the march on Washington.

Halting Delinquency

Convicts are not all bad after they are convicted. There are some with the urge to do good. In Lorton Reformatory, near Washington, D.C., several inmates got together last April to plan to save younger prisoners from those bringing in the drug traffic, and from sexual assaults. They called themselves the Youth Guidance Council, because they were especially interested in preventing the spread of vicious influences to the rooky convicts.

The news reached the outside with amazing results. Project Progress, formed to operate youth and self-help programs in the city, has arranged to have numbers of the convicts devote their days to helping the youths in Washington. They are asked to describe their own roads to prison and the hope is that the warning will be in time to save youngsters from a life of crime and narcotics.

The inmates include men who are serving sentences for kidnapping, manslaughter and other crimes. They are free all day to do their missionary work. At night, they are rounded up and taken back to the reformatory. By helping the youngsters, they help themselves to a feeling of making up to society for their crimes. So far, they have not violated the freedom accorded them.

U.S. Prisoners of War

North Vietnam has promised to give an American antiwar group the names of all U.S. prisoners it holds, together with other pertinent information about them. We may not be happy that an anti-war group has been chosen for this vital information—it is easy for them to use it for propaganda purposes—but we are glad that the information is forthcoming nevertheless.

William M. Kunstler, a New York attorney, who is chief defense counsel at the Chicago riot conspiracy trial, made the announcement after he had flown to Paris and talked to a North Vietnamese delegate to the peace talks. That the North Vietnamese were willing to make public, through Kunstler, the names of the prisoners they hold, certainly shows the connection between antiwar leaders and the enemy.

The United States has made known that it will be more than glad to get the names of the POWs in North Vietnam. So will many families across the land, but they are saddened that it had to come through those who have consistently worked against the best interests of our fighting men.

Instead of showing peaceful intentions by acting through the Red Cross, as international conduct requires, North Vietnam chose to glorify the anti-war and anti-U.S. segment which does so much continuously to bolster the enemy and prolong the war. Their action is a poor guarantee for our prisoners' safety.

"Just Watch Your Spelling and Punctuation!"

David Lawrence Says Does Statement by NEA Reflect Wishes of Educators?

WASHINGTON — Plenty of associations with special interests to serve maintain offices in Washington or send representatives to the Nation's Capital regularly to lobby for certain causes, and claim to speak for great numbers of people. But there is no way of telling whether they really do reflect the wishes of the citizens whom they purport to represent.

The president of the National Education Association has sent to every member of the Senate a telegram which is supposed to represent the views of "more than two million professional educators in 9,000 state and local affiliates." They are alleged to have concluded that the record of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth on civil rights "renders him unfit" to fill the vacant seat on the Supreme Court of the United States. The Senators are urged to vote against his confirmation.

A statement by the NEA president was released at the same time accusing the Nixon administration of having "sold out to racism in the nomination." Nowhere in the documents, however, is proof given of any decisions by Judge Haynsworth that an impartial board would consider "racist." The pronouncement of the National Education Association doesn't concern itself with the accusations about indiscretion in conflict of interest matters, although this has been the chief factor in criticism of President Nixon's appointee. The NEA statement says in part:

"As professionals devoted to the great potential of the American Educational System, we cannot sit idly by and watch what appears to be the payoff of political debts in the form of this nomination to the Supreme Court.

"It is perfectly clear to me that this nomination, advertised as objective and above board, is a sham and a fraud."

Many teachers who are members of the National Education Association probably can recall the days of "McCarthyism," when it was charged that innocent persons were smeared by political demagoguery. In this instance, the NEA doesn't cite any case which would sustain linking Judge Haynsworth with "racism." Eminent Judges on the bench have given their testimony that he is a man not only of high integrity but well qualified by his service on the bench to be promoted to the high court. The American Bar Association, through a special committee, made a report of Judge Haynsworth's record and approved his nomination.

Every Senator received a month ago from Senators Hruska and Cook, members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, a comprehensive report on all the civil-rights cases in which Judge Haynsworth has participated. Professor G. W. Foster, Jr., who made the study, is described as "a strong civil-rights advocate." He was largely responsible for the formulation of the original school desegregation "guidelines" put out by the department of health, education and welfare in 1965, and has had contact with Federal Judges on these problems. He appraises Judge

Haynsworth's record in these words:

"I have thought of his work, not as that of a segregationist-inclined Judge, but as that of an intelligent and open-minded man with a practical knack for seeking workable answers to hard questions."

Undoubtedly there are some teachers in the National Education Association who are sympathetic with the AFL-CIO and also with Negro civil-rights groups, which have been leading the fight to prevent confirmation of Judge Haynsworth. But if a poll were actually taken of the two million members, and the question were asked as to how many of them had read any case decided by Judge Haynsworth on civil rights or racial matters, it probably would be found that very few have studied his record. Yet a statement is made in the name of a prominent organization of professional educators which undertakes to pass judgement on the qualifications of a man who for 12 years has been a judge on the United States Court of Appeals and is highly regarded by the judicial fraternity.

One wonders what kind of justice really would be favored by the NEA to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court. Should it be someone who always takes one side on the complex questions on integration in the educational system and is a partisan of a particular viewpoint? Or should someone be named who adheres to his oath of office and decides each case only on its merits and in conformity with constitutional principles?

Nixon Scores With Plan

Viet Timetable Is Vital Step

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Much of the domestic reaction of public figures to President Nixon's Vietnam speech was entirely predictable. But a good deal of it was strangely off the mark, and it raises key questions about credibility and the uses of the English language.

For instance, it was said by many critics, some of them even quite moderate, that there was "nothing new" in the speech.

The simple fact is that there was. Never before had the President himself said that he has an "orderly, scheduled timetable" for the full withdrawal of all U.S. ground combat forces — or that this plan has been communicated to and accepted by the Saigon government.

That represents a public commitment of utmost significance, far beyond the closely parallel earlier comments of Defense Secretary Laird or the private word from several administration officials that such a plan exists and is thoroughly under way.

Nixon's decision not to announce the timetable produces arguments and effects both the "newness" of his basic assertion is unassailable.

Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas found the President's expressed positions "indistinguishable" from those of former President Johnson and former Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Fulbright had much company on this claim.

Yet a quick review of Johnson's final major utterances on the war disclosed not the faintest hint by him of any proposal or plan of unilateral troop withdrawal by the United States from South Vietnam. He never got beyond proposing and undertaking negotiations with Hanoi in Paris which had proved fruitless by the time he left office.

Nixon has, in obvious fact, begun actually to pull out troops, he has cut back air sorties over South Vietnam and sharply limited the circumstances under which remaining U.S. combat troops may engage in fire-fights with the enemy. It is a winding-down process which Johnson never approached even remotely.

Nixon's decision not to declare publicly his withdrawal timetable, which several close foreign policy observers and now even some heretofore skeptical GOP dove senators believe he has, runs into two principal difficulties.

It does not satisfy such men as the thoughtful former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford who think that Saigon will assume its own military burdens only when we have asserted before all the world our irreversible intent to "take out" all combat troops by a fixed date.

Moreover, the President's secrecy as to numbers and dates comes sharply athwart the credibility problem.

All aside from any judgements of Nixon's own character, it is being suggested in this town that LBJ left such a gaping chasm of credibility as his inheritance that no president is likely to be believed unless he lays his case openly on the table for all to see.

The question therefore becomes whether Nixon's assertion of a timetable plan will be believed even by the "silent majority" he says exists and hopes will support him. Fresh polling checks by Gallup suggest they may. But doubt about what any president says has now sunk deep roots in this country.

Such doubt is not lessened when Fulbright dishonestly contends that the President claims that a majority of Americans support "the war." The President did not say that. Nixon, says a White House source, simply believes and hopes the "silent majority" supports his way of getting out of the war.

Nixon's notion is, the source says, that nearly all Americans want us out of Vietnam as fast as is possible without crushing cost to South Vietnam and new dangers to ourselves.

Secrecy on his timetable is taken as rational by some here, on grounds it deprives Hanoi of crucial foreknowledge and widens his options on step-by-step withdrawal moves. So he contends, too.

Critics who press him to move faster, who say there is no plan unless it is theirs, do not know their man. He is unlikely to yield. He thinks he has big backing. And he thinks he is right.

Jack Anderson Says Sergeant's Father-in-Law Paid $2,000 From GI Clubs

WASHINGTON — The shameful story of sergeants who looted overseas PXs and GI clubs is far from ended. Tales of murdered witnesses, Swiss bank accounts, and bizarre payroll padding remain to be told.

One of the most sordid of these episodes is described in a confidential staff report prepared by Senate investigators in Vietnam for Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

The proud, battle-seasoned First Infantry Division is the focus of the dramatic report. Its main character is Staff Sergeant George Lumm, bookkeeper of a club system established to relax, not bilk, its soldier-patrons.

Lumm prospered far from the front where First Infantry units have been fighting the elusive Viet Cong. He and his Vietnamese wife, Ha, lived like two potentates in a rent-free Saigon villa. Lumm allegedly banked $200,000 in a secret Swiss account.

The high-living staff sergeant was on the club payroll for $30 a month. He also wangled a job for his wife. Her father Hoang Dac Hy, got another $2,000 a month for providing the clubs with bread and vegetables.

Ribicoff's gumshoes, however, reported: "Hoang Dac Hy's bread is inferior and goes stale quickly and his vegetables, with the exception of the onions, are the frequent target of complaints from cooks and managers all through the division club system."

$1.60 Pension

Lumm's father-in-law is an ex-South Vietnamese soldier with a $1.60 monthly pension. But his sergeant son-in-law's influence has eased his poverty. Hoang and his wife now own a $7,200 house — a mansion by Vietnam standards.

Lumm's provident wife, Ha, used her husband's office to negotiate a side deal with one of her father's pals to print $2,000-a-month worth of unneeded "chits" — a sort of currency used within the club system.

For three years, Lumm lived better on enlisted men's funds than some stateside generals. He was briefly troubled by Army auditors, but solved that problem neatly by recording three years of club receipts.

Eventually, a disgusted comrade, Sergeant Frederick Chapman, turned in Lumm and a warehouseman, identified in the confidential staff memo only as "Sergeant Perry," to Army criminal investigators for falsifying records in order to steal beer.

Chapman quickly encountered the sergeants' revenge. As reconstructed from sworn statements, this scene occurred:

Perry: "Sergeant Chapman, I don't want to see you in my warehouse again or I'll kill you. I'll blow your brains out. Do you understand?"

Chapman: "Yes."

Perry: "That is not a threat, that is a promise."

As a result of this incident, Perry was put under investigation by Army criminal agents on charges that he threatened to murder a witness.

Witness Murdered
Another non-com reportedly knew about the activities of Lumm and Perry, but the Senate investigators got to the scene 12 days too late to interview him. He was

AROLD, DO YOU GET TIRED OF BEING NEEDLED ALL THE TIME?

Henry J. Taylor Says

Nasser's Intervention

When Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser gets his name in the world's papers on the side of peace, this will do for openers, say old-time poker players say. Yet this wily cooer stands as the hero in cooling the caldron in the so-called Lebanon dispute.

The causes of the crisis are a fascinating lesson in the Middle East situation, in which we have such a stake. And the probable results of Nasser's intervention are something like the man who fell off the top of the Empire State Building and said to a first-floor resident as he passed him, "So far so good."

Israel was founded on April 15, 1948. This U.S.-supported act alone made 100 million Arabs pale with fury. Throughout all history the Jews have always been outnumbered, and the continuing Middle East war still comes down to 11 million Arabs against 3 million Jews.

Lebanon is in the forefront of the armed attacks against Israel, but not officially. The task is chiefly in the hands of the Palestine commandos or fedayeen. The main commando organization, Al Fatah, is led by fanatical Yasser Arafat, a Cairo-educated Palestine Arab, with whom Nasser made his deal which is now in the news.

The second leader is former diplomat Asem Shukairy, who has represented Syria and Saudi Arabia. The third chief is George Habache, a Palestinian who became a doctor in Lebanon.

If all this news mystifies us it is probably because we fail to distinguish the Palestine Arabs from the other Arabs in the Arab world. Accordingly, who are the Palestine Arabs?

As a boot of World War I Britain seized Palestine under the Balfour Declaration, obtained a League of Nations mandate, and set up shop to enhance Britain's commercial and strategic interests, thereby violating every pledge Britain had given the Arabs in order to gain their help against the Turks in World War I. It was then that the true influx of European Jews and the eviction of the Palestine Arabs began.

In this development, and with the founding of Israel, the Palestine Arab evictees now total about 2 1/2 million, many more than generally supposed. In the 1948 Palestine war Israel took about 3,000 square miles more territory than the United Nations resolution of November 29, 1947, gave her. About a million of today's evicted Arab refugees date from that time — 21 years ago.

The largest number of Palestine Arabs, living mostly in refugee camps, are in the former territories of Jordan, the Gaza Strip and the west bank of the Jordan River and in what remains of Jordan itself. But there are also large and violently resentful groups in Lebanon, Syria and throughout the oil sheikdoms of the Persian Gulf.

Throughout all these years these fragmented people have had no political life. Fanatical Yasser Arafat and his Al Fatah commandos are mainly a political instrument dedicated to uniting the far-flung Palestine Arabs. Arafat himself once summarized the Al Fatah objective to me: "The Palestine Arabs," he said, "can be mobilized only around the issue of fighting." He sounded like he'd been taking a course in "How to Talk Like James Cagney Telling the Mob What's What."

In effect, this group is specialist-4 Jose Antonio

Calderon-Pacheco. "Calderon's body was found June 4, 1969," reported the staff document. "He had been shot to death at close range in the head and stomach by a .45 caliber automatic pistol."

The staff sleuths added grimly: "The price of having someone killed here is as low as $50."

The victim reportedly was collecting $20 and $30 payments for keeping quiet about dishonesty in the club system at the time he was shot down. His murder, apparently, was precipitated by the trail that Ribicoff was on the trail of illegal PX and GI club activities.

Note: The threatened Sergeant Chapman was transferred to another division to prevent a similar disaster. The Senate investigators reported that he "is obviously afraid for his life (and) caught up in a dangerous situation because he bothered to report to authorities what no one else had the courage — or the inclination — to do."

Consumer Prices

Safely out of public earshot, President Nixon added a postscript to his plan to give the consumers new status in the government. In a blaze of publicity, he called for new measures to protect the consumers and declared that his consumer adviser, Mrs. Virginia Knauer, will give a direct pipeline to him.

Consumer Prices

After the press had departed and the kleig lights were switched off, however, he cautioned Mrs. Knauer that she should put special emphasis on protecting the health of the consumers, not in leading an assault upon producers. Mrs. Knauer interpreted her instructions, according to insiders, to mean that she should crack down on unsafe products but should be less vigorous in attacking high prices.

Note: The President remarked, astonishingly, that 938 different federal offices deal in one way or another with consumer matters. He asked Mrs. Knauer to correlate their activities.

TEEN SCENE: How to Plan Gifts From the Heart

By LEI

How often have you wished, the week before Christmas, that you'd thought about making Christmas gifts early enough to do it? Well, this year, it's still early enough to do it. If you don't wait until the week before Christmas again and then finish fighting the crowds in the check-out counters as your Christmas spirit evaporates with your hard-earned cash.

Making Christmas gifts is a good way to save money and irritation, but it's more than that. It's a way of giving a gift that says "I cared," instead of "I spent."

Some people make the mistake of thinking that they aren't creative, and that nothing they made could be nice enough for a gift. Far from it. One of the out-of-sight parts of making gifts for your friends and family is that you can put your talents—whatever they are—to work on the project. If you can't tell an eggbeater from an eggplant, but you love to paint a painting or original poster for a wall would be a good gift to give. If you like woodworking, you can build small pieces of furniture; if you can work with metal, you might be able to make jewelry or ashtrays.

Creative Helpers

There are craft books at most libraries that give full directions for a wide variety of projects. Some magazines, before Christmas, also print gift-making ideas. If you really feel you have no talents you can use it to make Christmas gifts, or you're afraid you're all thumbs, there are kits that make gift-making so easy that it's practically cheating.

The following are gift-giving suggestions that ought to be easy to carry out if you have the basic skills needed to complete them:

• For little sister—A bright pop poster for her wall, a handmade pinafore to protect her party dress, a rag doll in a dress that looks like one of her own favorites, some fancy clothes for her Barbie doll, a bright bulletin board for her wall, a cabinet for her record player and records, a pretty pottery bedside lamp.

• For little brother—A blow-up poster of his favorite comic character, a box of sugar cookies, a pair of mittens and matching stocking cap, an indian-beaded belt and pair of moccasins, a chest for his toys and games, a case for his favorite collection, a hand-made dart set or other game.

• For your mother—pot-holder sets, pincushions, a chalkboard for the kitchen, an enlargement of your baby photos in a hand-made frame, a watercolor for the living room, a set of pottery ashtrays or a cookie jar, a chest for her jewelry, some hand-made clothing or lingerie.

• For your father—A handframed photo of the family for his office, a big ashtray or a painting for his den, a warm pair of work mittens, a catch-all tray for the car, a handknit muffler in an extra-long length.

• For the house—A bird-feeder, a set of matching trash baskets, big, furry, hassock-style cushions, matching placemats and tablecloth, ceramic planters for the household greenery.

• For the class—Strings of love-beads or hand-cut leather pendants, incense holders that double as candlesticks, photos of themselves, taken when they didn't know it and hand-framed, a hand-made book of your poems, or a favorite classic of theirs recopied poster-style, fake-fur berets with matching gloves, book bags, hand-cut leather belts with hardware fastenings, eyeglass cases, hand-decorated gloves, a hand-etched guitar strap.

Those are just ideas to jolt your imagination. Don't just imagine, though—start to work, and by Christmas Eve, your room will look like Santa's workshop, filled with gifts that are really one-of-a-kind, and say that you know the meaning of giving—putting yourself into your packages. That is what the Spirit of the Holidays is all about, you know.

Student Voters Select Officers

KINGSTON Election stole the spotlight this week for adults and teens alike.

While the over 21 crowd trekked to the polls to make their choice for town and city officials, students were conducting their own campaigns and elections in school assemblies and corridors.

Results of the recent Student Council election at J. Watson Bailey Junior High School have been tabulated and winners declared.

Kent St. John heads the slate as president. Other officers for the coming year are Daniel Brown, vice president; Marilyn Van Kleeck, secretary, and Cathy Snyder, treasurer.

Unsuccessful candidates were Mark Anderson for president; Sue Helmrich, vice president; Debbie Richter, secretary, and Mary Markes for treasurer.

Campaign speeches were presented at an all school assembly prior to the voting by machine. Teachers served as election inspectors at the polls.

Saugerties Election

Three classes at Saugerties High School chose their officials for the coming school year in recent elections. Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors participated in the political doings.

Prior to the elections students filed nominating petitions, developed campaign platforms, and at a special assembly program delivered campaign speeches. Strict security was observed during the balloting process, and the campaign managers performed in the role of tellers.

When the oratory subsided and the campaign posters were removed the following results were announced:

Class Winners:

Sophomore Class — Duane White, president; Robin Shier, vice president; Patty Moser, secretary; Brenda Brink, treasurer; and Maria Rinaldi, social director.

That office of social director might be a good one to add all the ballots—school and city.

Youth in the News

KINGSTON

Kingston area youth at home and away at college are receiving honors worthy of note.

Henry Yeh, a senior at Kingston High School, has the honor of being selected to participate in the Eleventh Annual Florida Science Study Program to be held 11 days during Christmas vacation.

The Florida program annually selects 124 honor high school science students in schools throughout the northeast to participate in the Scientific Classroom. This unique travel and study program throughout the State of Florida will feature the exploration of career opportunities in the Sciences—including the Biological and Physical sciences, Oceanography, Medical science, and Space sciences.

The conference will combine 60 hours of Science instruction, the excitement of travel under the guidance of experienced educators and scientists along with an unusual opportunity to meet and mingle with exceptional high school students from states in the Northeast.

Conference activities will include discussion groups, panels and seminars conducted by outstanding scientists along with visits to scientific institutions and laboratories. In addition swimming and social activities are included.

Last year, Harriet Hulst of Kingston, a senior at Ulster Academy, was selected for the Florida adventure.

Two Kingston area college students have been selected for listing in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Edward Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mills of 154 West Pierpont Street, Kingston, and Rae Wiser of Society of Brothers, Rifton were named to the honor at their respective colleges.

Mills is a senior at Parsons College, a four-year liberal arts school in Fairfield, Iowa. Miss Wiser is a senior at the State University College at Brockport.

Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities is published annually and honors outstanding students from institutions of higher education throughout the country.

Sharon Turner, a 1969 graduate of Kingston High School, has been elected representative to the student council at Lees Junior College where she is a member of the freshman class.

A 1967 graduate of KHS has been accorded scholarship honors at Mitchell College, New London, Conn. Dale E. Van Gaasbeek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. Van Gaasbeek of 78 Maiden Lane, was among 50 students receiving citations for commendable scholarship as a result of spring semester work.

The scholastic achievements of these area students are apt prelude to American Education Week which will be observed nationwide Nov. 9 through 16.

Arts Rate High at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ Students at New Paltz High School are delving deeply into the arts this fall.

Fledgling artists recently displayed their class endeavors at the New Paltz Savings Bank. The works represented the introductory exercises used in basic art and art workshop courses. Included were design exercises in pencil and tempera drawings in India ink and wash, watercolor paintings and poster designs stenciled in tempera.

Loeks, Ed Grainger, Laurie Sheldon, Tom Pallus, Jennifer Jewett, Debbie Lorenzen and Liz Barnett.

Another art show is planned for March. Acrylic paintings and graphic prints will be featured in the spring show.

Also in the arts, David Budman, a new Paltz High School senior recently presented a folk concert at the school. He sang a number of selections including an original composition while accompanying himself on the guitar. Last summer David twice appeared on the Hudson River sloop replica Clearwater at the invitation of Pete Seeger.

The seniors recently went on the class trip to New York City. The formal part of the trip included a motion picture at Radio City Music Hall titled

BOB SHELIGHTNER

Ex-Golden Glover Drum Corps Teacher

KINGSTON — Would you believe a former Golden Gloves boxer who has won 68 of 75 boxing matches and who has battled in every New York State ring, plus three main event bouts in Louisville, Ky., could be a topflight professional drum corps instructor?

The Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps had better believe it! Robert P. (The Kid) Bella Rosa, who was also the 1945 Connecticut State champion and P.A.L. champion (1947-1949) is one of their 1970 bugle instructors, who is teaching the new members of the corps their musical ABCs. Indeed, they are learning to play "quicker than quick" and liking it, too.

After 12 years in drum corps activity, Bella Rosa has called it a career, except for his affiliation with the Indians.

Bella Rosa joined the famous New York Skyliners in 1962, after emerging from the ranks of the Holy Name Cadets of Garfield, N. J.

With Caballeros

He was a playing member of the nationally famous Hawthorne Caballeros from 1966 through 1969 and served as a member of the All-American Drum and Bugle Association

ROBERT P. BELLA ROSA

(Connecticut chapter) in 1968-69.

Over the years, he has competed several times in the National Open, New York State, Eastern States and All-American Championships. He won first place 60 times for French horn—with seven seconds and three third places to his credit.

Bella Rosa has instructed more than 20 junior drum corps and one senior corps. As a pioneer in the field, he founded Bella Rosa Recording System, National Recordings and Bank K Records. He also publishes the Eastern Review Magazine which is to the drum corps world what Variety is to show business.

Bella Rosa makes his home in Brooklyn. He has two daughters and a son, Robert Joseph, named after his Skyliner Drum Corps buddy. The girls are also in drum corps.

The Kingston Indians are still seeking additional experienced horn players so that they may increase their bugle line from 38 to 48 members. The corps, which now has a total of 76 members, will appear in Mobile, Alabama; Montreal, and Racine, Wis., in addition to the New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Massachusetts areas in 1970. Young men (age 14 to 20) interested in joining the Kingston's Good Will Ambassadors should attend the Indians' next music rehearsal which will be held at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium Sunday between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Snow Speed Sets World Record In UN Feature

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI)—Snow Speed of the United States set a new world record of 3:05.25 in winning the United Nations Trot Friday night at Yonkers Raceway, with the favored Fresh Yankee of Canada second and Upsal of France third.

Driver Glen Garmey took Snow Speed immediately to the front in the 1.2 mile race and the 4-year-old stallion led every post to take first money of $25,000 plus an extra 5,000 dollars for setting a new world's record.

Tenpin Topplers Tie With 722

KINGSTON — Kildy Corrado, a balding veteran who has been a "name" bowler for the past decade, and Lou Pulcastro are leading the individual scoring with 722 triples at this stage of the 1969-70 season.

Two pins off the pace is another time-tested veteran Hall of Famer Larry Petersen with 720.

Al North, who divides his bowling time between Saugerties and Kingston, appears twice in the Top Ten, with a 703 in regular league competition and a 719 in the King of the Hill tournament at the Saugerties Bowlers Club. He decked that score with games of 257, 226 and 236.

In Fourth Place

North's 719 is good for fourth place, a pin ahead of Big Bob Shelightner and the 703 is in ninth place.

Buster Buel, who recently rolled the first perfect "300" score of the season, notched 717 in that series and now ranks sixth, a notch in front of Bob (Tall) Smith's 716.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Jim Hotaling, a first timer with 711 and veteran Tom Carlinio, a Hall of Fame candidate with an even 700.

It will now take a 701 to crash the honor roll for men.

Buel's 300, of course, leads the individual scoring, based on a compilation maintained by the Freeman sports department.

Doug Coons, also of Saugerties, held the lead for several weeks with 289 until Buel blasted his 300. Three bowlers—Hotaling, North and Carlinio—are tied with 279's. North also shares a tie at 278 with Joe Wilson.

Shelighner Sizzling

Shelighner is top bowler in the average department, hitting over 200 in three leagues; with 205.11 in the Mid-City 4 Man Classic; 203.17 in the Invitation and 204.7 in the International. Highest average is Mike Cash-ara's 207.2 for 18 games in the Invitational Classic, where Larry Petersen has 202.12 and Al North, 201.15.

Herb Petersen boasts 203.19 in the International; Larry Petersen, 202.10.

Rosemary Losee Is Selected For International Quilleurs

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Mrs. Rosemary Losee of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is one of six stand-out bowlers named to the six-woman United States bowling team which will compete in the 5th Federation Internationale des Quilleurs, American Zone tournament, in San Juan, Puerto Rico, Nov. 8-15.

A 15-member U.S. team of women and men will be sponsored by the Woman's International Bowling Congress and the American Bowling Congress. The event will be staged at Paradies Lan's in San Juan.

Two other Empire State Stars have been named to the team, including Mrs. Irene Monterosso, Flushing, and Miss Annette Dunleavy of Brooklyn. Joining this trio are Miss Neva Running Wolf, San Francisco; Mrs. Jane Leszczynski, Milwaukee; and Miss Grace Werkmeister of Chicago.

WIBC's six members were of the highest scoring non-professional performers in all events in the 1969 WIBC Championship Tournament at San Diego, Calif.

Re-elected Chairman

NEW YORK (UPI)—Red Foley of the New York Daily News was re-elected chairman of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America for a one-year term, Thursday at the group's annual meeting. Maury Allen of the New York Post was re-elected vice chairman and Jack Lang of the Long Island Press was re-elected secretary treasurer.

Also traveling with the official party will be ABC president Herman C. Rider, Cleveland; WIBC president, Mrs. Alberta Crowe, Syracuse; and ABC executive secretary, Frank C. Baker, Milwaukee.

There will be four men's and four women's championships at the eight-man teams and a special singles contest involving the top 32 scorers for the all-events title. Women will compete in five-player, two player and four player competition and then the top 24 individuals advance into special singles and a chance for all events laurels.

Two styles of bowling — U.S. and European — will be used. In the events using U.S. style, players alternate lanes each frame, while in the European style a bowler rolls either a complete game, or half game (5 frames) on one lane before shifting to the adjoining one.

American Education Week

Open House and Parent Participation on Schedule

LOUIS SALZMANN

KINGSTON — When Johnny can't read, everyone pays.

So say the sponsors of American Education Week which will be observed in the Kingston Consolidated Schools, Nov. 9-15.

According to Louis A. Salzmänn, acting superintendent of schools, this year's theme of the annual visit-the-schools observance, "Better Education: Your Job," will emphasize the dependence of every segment of the community on quality education.

"If Johnny is unemployed because he is insufficiently educated, he and his family must subsist at public cost," Salzmänn said. "The cost to the public increases when Johnny finds a life of self-employed crime more attractive than unemployment or the poorly paid socially degrading employment open to the uneducated."

Superintendent Salzmänn noted that the President's Commission on Crime in the District of Columbia found that only 14 per cent of all convicted offenders had finished high school and 46 per cent had no education beyond the eighth grade. We pointed out that the cost of keeping a young person in a correctional institution for a year was $3,613 in 1965, while in the same year the average expenditure per pupil in the public schools was $483.

Could Be Reduced

Salzmänn further emphasized that at that rate, "admittedly far too low," a child could be given about 7.5 years of education for the cost of one year in detention. "The cost of crime, of law enforcement, and of correction are high," he said. "If better education is made available, they can be reduced."

But if Johnny can read—read well—everyone in the community gains. According to the superintendent, the greater amount of education Johnny has, the higher his income is likely to be. Consequently, a community where most Johnnys have completed their high school education will likely have a greater per-capita income than one in which most citizens did not finish high schools.

Where property values and income are high it is possible to have a low tax rate or have a situation where the area gets more from their tax rate than a community with poor property and low income. Furthermore, both an educated population and a low tax rate are factors which are likely to attract business and industry to a state or community, thus improving employment opportunities for an individual and providing greater resources for the government.

Finally, Superintendent Salzmänn pointed out that a community where jobs are awarded on the basis of qualifications and the schools encourage students to become qualified is likely to be a peaceful community.

When students see that time spent in quality schools is an investment that will pay dividends, they are more likely to continue their studies through high school and perhaps beyond.

In such communities, the unemployment rate is lowered, and a higher percentage of the community therefore has a stake in the preservation of the community.

Every element of society must consider better education his job.

Sponsored annually by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U.S. Office of Education, American Education Week serves to increase public understanding and support of the schools and to encourage parents to visit their children's schools at least once a year. Supervisor-Elect Will Take Salary Cut SHANDAKEN — Elected to office in a landslide vote this week, Raymond Dunn, Town of Shandaken's supervisor-elect, is taking an $800 cut in salary.

Dunn proposed the cut in salary for himself at the post-election budget hearing in the northern Ulster community. Announcing that he felt such a cut would be "for the good of the town," the newly elected Republican head of Shandaken urged that his yearly salary be cut from $3,200 to $2,400.

Dunn went Hurley's supervisor-elect George Schroeder one better. Schroeder, a present councilman who will move up to head the board next year as a result of Tuesday's election, proposed a $300 decrease in his salary and got his wish. His pay will be cut from $2,700 to $2,400. While both Dunn and Schroeder will earn the same amount in 1970, Dunn penalized himself $500 more.

At the Shandaken budget hearing, the town board voted approval of the 1970 budget, with no objections from members or the approximately one dozen residents present. The budget hit $269,000, including all items such as general fund, highway and special districts. This represents only a $500 increase over last year, but Dunn says further revisions are called for and a few cuts will be made. Following the hearing, the board also formally signed the previously announced contract for use of the Woodstock sanitary landfill. In the now binding agreement between Shandaken and Woodstock, residents of Shandaken have carte blanche to make dumping use of the art colony premises. For this privilege, Shandaken will pay Woodstock $5,000 yearly in rental fees.

Members also voted for a delegation, headed by supervisor-elect Dunn, to contact Dr. Harold Snyder, superintendent of Ontario Central Schools, with an offer to give the schools use of the Town of Shandaken ambulance service in case of emergency. The move is considered an excellent one since Ontario schools in the Phoenix and Boiceville areas are far afield from existing services and hospitals.

Knee Injury Topples Wilt; May Be Lost for the Season

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tower- ing Wilt Chamberlain might be lost to the Los Angeles Lakers for the remainder of the National Basketball Association season, but the jury that decked him was no surprise to Laker Coach Joe Mullaney.

The 7-foot-2 Chamberlain, playing possibly his greatest game as a Laker Friday night, suddenly went down as his right knee gave way. It was diagnosed as a ruptured tendon high in the right knee cap.

The Lakers eventually lost a 122-120 decision to Phoenix.

"When I came to Los Angeles," said first-year Laker Coach Mullaney, "I was told Chamberlain had a bad case of arthritis in his knees and constant pounding of the running up and down the court would shorten his career.

"That's why I kind of let Wilt set his own pace in practices."

In other NBA games, San Francisco nipped Boston 111-110, Detroit beat Philadelphia 134-129 in double overtime. New York took San Diego 129-111 and Baltimore defeated Seattle 126-112.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana romped past the New York Nets 118-108. Carolina edged Denver 105-104. New Orleans beat Dallas 101-98 and Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 124-111.

Chamberlain's injury was described by Dr. Robert Kerlan, famed orthopedic specialist, as "almost identical to the one suffered by Elgin Baylor some years ago."

Baylor missed part of the 1965-66 season with the injury but made a successful comeback the following season.

Before he left Friday's game, however, Chamberlain made his presence felt.

He hit the first 10 shots in the first quarter and wound up the game with 33 points, two assists and 15 rebounds. He was 13 of 14 from the floor.

But the steady outside shooting of former UCLA star Gail Goodrich paced a balanced Phoenix attack and Stan McKenzie of the Suns dropped in seven-foot jump shot at the buzzer as the Suns took their first-ever victory from the Lakers after six defeats last year.

Goodrich scored 37 points to top all scorers.

Mullaney was asked after the game who would take Chamberlain's place. He didn't hesitate and his answer came with a smile.

"Rick Roberson. He reminds me of Wes Unseld of Baltimore. I have a lot of confidence in this kid. He is going to surprise a lot of people."

Roberson, a 6-foot-9, 230-pounder, was a first-round choice of the Lakers from Cincinnati. He has played in only three of the nine Laker games. Most of the crowd of 6,627 at Boston Garden thought San Francisco's John Williams fired his decisive field goal on a 20-second clock shot after the 24-second referee John Parker ruled that Williams had beat the clock. The ruling put the Warriors ahead 109-107 with just 45 seconds left to play.

Boston's John Havlicek was the game's high scorer with 31 points, and Jeff Mullins topped the Warriors with 26.

The Detroit Philadelphia game was knotted 20 times, the last at 121-121 in the second extra period. A basket by Terry Dischinger, a free throw by Howard Komives and two free throws by Dischinger put Detroit ahead by five points, and the Pistons retained command of the rest of the way.

Walt Bellamy of Detroit

pumped in two free throws to tie the game 104-104 and force the first overtime. Two free throws by Detroit's Eddie Miles made it 117-117 at the end of the first overtime. The Pistons' Jimmy Walker was the game's high scorer with 29 points.

Willis Reed scored 26 points and Walt Frazier 22 as New York won its 12th game in 13 starts and sent San Diego to its eighth straight defeat and ninth in 10 games. Elvin Hayes led San Diego with 25 points.

Baltimore built a 33-point halftime lead, then staged off a Seattle rally to win by 14 points. Bob Rule of Seattle was high scorer with 29 points. Earl Monroe led Baltimore with 25.

Kickers to Play Ukrainians

Fabulous Mfum Due Here Sunday

MORGAN HILL

The Kingston Kickers, who have found the going pretty rough in the Major Division of the German-American Soccer Association, go right to the top of the Southern Division for their final home opponent of the 1969 season Sunday at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

New York Ukrainians, co-favorites with the national champion Greek-Americans to capture the Major bauble, have a record of 5 wins, a tie and 2 losses coming into Oehler's for Sunday's 2:30 p.m. contest.

The Kickers, striving to compete against professionals with an all-amateur lineup, are dead last in the division with one victory in seven tries.

The weather may be a major factor in the game, may cancel it out, but as of this morning, Ingo Froehlich, the Kicker's public relations director, said all signals were "go."

"We will make every effort to get the game in, since it's our last scheduled one of the home season," said Froehlich.

"The weather forecast isn't encouraging but we'll make every effort to play it. The field will not be available for the remainder of the season because extensive work is being done on it."

"The Ukrainians are undoubtedly one of the strongest, if not the strongest team in the United States," said Froehlich.

"They have the Republic of Ghana's all-star goalie between the posts, which ought to inspire a great duel between him and Kingston's Elliott Pobbis-Azare, who also happens to come from Ghana."

Another Ghana all-star player, with the Ukrainians is the great inside left, Mfum, who scored three goals against Kingston three weeks ago, when the Uke, walloped the Kickers, 7-1.

"The Ukes are a fully professional team," said Froehlich. "Make no mistake about it, they are here to pick up two points and bolster their league lead, but the Kickers have an excellent chance to stage one of the biggest upsets of the season. I'm sure our fellows are aware of that. In any event, it should be a great game."

Bob Graves will again be at the helm for the Kickers in place of Heinz Ullig, who is still on the sick list. Co-captain Karl Van Borkolu has recovered from his injury and is expected back in the lineup, but the team's dynamo and co-captain Reiner Schwebel, appears lost for the season.

Rain KO's UCAL

The entire slate of three Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL) football games scheduled for today have been postponed until Tuesday at 1:30 p. m.

The contests included Rondout Valley at Onteora; Liberty at New Paltz and Highland at Marlboro.

The Pine Bush-Walkill contest had not been postponed as of this morning. A victory by the Bushmen would give them the UCAL championship and nothing less than a stunning upset could seem to deprive them of that glory.

The Kingston High at Lourdes game and the DCSL championship affair between Arlington Central and Poughkeepsie High was still on tap at press time.

Although skies began to clear about 9 a. m. today, most UCAL coaches felt that the steady rains of the past two days had rendered the playing fields dangerous.

"To play would simply be asking for injuries," seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the UCAL coaches.

Rangers Trounce Oakland, 8 to 1

OAKLAND (AP) — The New York Rangers had a chance to move into first place in the East Division of the National Hockey League—and it took them only 20 minutes to take advantage of it.

New York scored six times in the first period Friday night and blasted Oakland 8-1 in the only NHL game scheduled.

The Rangers' victory moved them a point ahead of Boston, Detroit and Montreal.

The Rangers have won four times in four starts against West Division clubs and faced the Los Angeles Kings in an afternoon game today at the Los Angeles Forum.

In other games Toronto is at Montreal tonight, Boston at Detroit, Chicago at Pittsburgh and St. Louis at Minnesota.

STRICKEN GIANT—Wilt Chamberlain, almost indestructible athlete during his 11-year career, lies writhing in pain from a torn tendon in his right knee as Los Angeles Lakers trainer Frank O'Neil comes to his aid during third quarter of the Lakers Phoenix Suns game in Los Angeles Friday night. Chamberlain, who is scheduled to undergo surgery today, is expected to be lost for more than two months. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

In the National League

The Best and Worst

(By The Associated Press)

Veteran San Francisco quarterback John Brodie, returning to a starter's role, and rookie signal-caller Bobby Douglass of the Chicago Bears will be aiming to end the longest winning and losing streaks in the National Football League Sunday.

Brodie is expected to get the nod over Steve Spurrier, who started for the 49ers the past two weeks, for the contest against the unbeaten Rams at Los Angeles.

The Roman Gabriel led Rams have swept to seven straight victories, including a 27-21 triumph over the 49ers earlier in the year. However, in that one, the Rams had to score two touchdowns in the last quarter to escape. Brodie went all the way in that one and hit on 29 of 51 passes for 254 yards.

The 49ers, 1-5-1, are healthy but Los Angeles will be without offensive guard Joe Seibelli, lost for the season with knee surgery, and linebacker Myron Potlios, injured in an auto accident earlier this week.

Meanwhile, the Bears who have lost eight straight NFL games—seven this season—the most Chicago has ever lost in a row, will be at home and favored to make Pittsburgh, 1-6, their first victims of 1969.

Douglass, the newcomer from Kansas, will be making his third straight start. With Douglass at the controls, Gale Sayers, the Bears running ace, rebounding from knee surgery, has come on with two consecutive 100-yard plus games on the ground. Sayers swept for 114 yards last week and is now the No. 4 rusher in the league with 445 yards.

Terry Hanratty, who passed for three touchdowns on 14 of 23 before being shaken up in the fourth quarter of the Steelers' 38-34 loss to Green Bay Sunday is expected to start. It will be the Notre Dame rookie's third start of the year.

Other games Sunday have Century Division leader Cleveland, 5-1-1, at Minnesota, 6-1, the top club in the Central Division; New York, 3-4, at St. Louis, 2-4-1; Green Bay, 5-2, at Baltimore, 4-3; New Orleans, 1-6, at Dallas, 6-1; Philadelphia, 3-4, at Washington, 4-2-1; and Atlanta, 2-5, at Detroit, 4-3.

The Browns, who slammed Dallas 42-10 last week and ended the Cowboys' unbeaten string at six, will be out to stop the red-hot Vikings, who have won six straight after an opening game loss to the Giants.

Green Bay, one game behind the Vikings in the Capitol Division, must get past the Colts to stay in contention. The Packers play the Vikings in Milwaukee next Sunday. However, Baltimore comes off its most impressive victory of 1969, a 41-17 triumph over Washington last week.

In the American League

Can Cook Strike Oil?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Greg Cook, Cincinnati's quick-dealing rookie quarterback who came back from injury last week and found a new accomplice in pass catcher Chip Meyers, leads the Bengals against Houston in a key American Football League game Sunday.

Houston, two games behind New York and slowly sinking in the East, will have to flush out the blue chip rookie, who unloaded two touchdown passes to Meyers last week in the 31-17 stunner over Oakland's power house.

New York, led by their ace in the hole, quarterback Joe Namath, has a seemingly easy touch, playing Buffalo before a full house at home.

Elsewhere Sunday, Kansas City, the Western Division leader, hosts San Diego; Oakland, a half-game behind the Chiefs, plays at home to Denver, and Miami visits Boston, with its usual Pat hand.

Cook's return to the lineup last week helped the Bengals crack a four game losing string and gave the team more victories—four—than it had all last season.

Don Trull, who rallied the Oilers from behind in a four quarter victory against Denver earlier this year, will replace Pete Beathard as the starting quarterback this Sunday. Coach Wal Lemm announced the change after Beathard was ineffective against Boston last week.

Juveniles Charged With Setting Fires

HYDE PARK
Three juveniles will be petitioned into Dutchess County Family Court on charges stemming from fires they were accused of setting in the Hyde Park Central School, which necessitated the evacuation of pupils.

Chief Detective Charles Borchers of the Sheriff's office, who conducted the investigation and charged the three juveniles, said one boy was accused of setting fire in a waste basket in a water section Thursday afternoon. The school was evacuated and Roosevelt Fire Company was dispatched.

School employees quelled the blaze which was confined to the basket and contents.

Two other juveniles were picked up Friday and accused of starting a fire in a towel dispenser in a toilet at the school. The fire was reported at 11 a.m. and the blaze was quickly extinguished by teachers. Again the school was evacuated until firemen checked the scene of the fire and ejected smoke from the building.

Dear Abby

Tells Dangers of 'Pot'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a former drug user, or rather abuser. I hope that some will view the dangers of "pot" a little more realistically. I shall recite my own experience:

I am a well-groomed, upper-middle class college student, not the typical hippie-type. Most of my friends are "clean cut" drug users. You cannot recognize a drug user by his physical appearance. The girl who looks like a perfect lady may be as much of a "pot head" as the long-haired hippie.

Drug abuse is an evil that has swept our campuses. Even the small town campuses are overrun. I would say that at least half the students have smoked pot. It doesn't matter what kind of homes they come from. The kids from lower class homes, in fact, I think more kids who have led sheltered lives are the biggest users.

I entered college wearing rose-colored glasses. I saw very little of the seamy side of life, therefore when problems arose, I "copped out." From pot I proceeded to amphetamines. For a year I smoked pot to get "high" and I popped pills, too. I wasn't a constant user, but rather an sporadic user. A problem arose and rather than face it, I entered my "happy world" of pills.

But I was lucky. My brilliant, vibrant, beautiful friend was less fortunate. She died of an overdose of drugs. Ironically enough, her death saved my life.

I told myself to grow up and face reality with all its problems. My case is not an isolated one. Colleges are swamped with students like me. Remember, the first social pot party can easily turn the other stable personality on to other drugs. I stress, emphatically to those entering college, STAY AWAY FROM POT . . . and DRUGS. It is so easy to get hooked, and so hard to kick the habit.

I've since heard that this type of wedding dance is common in northern Maine and Canada. Have you ever heard of it? Maybe some of your readers up there have. I'd really like to know.

LIVE AND LET LIVE. BUT WONDERING

DEAR LIVE: Yes, I have heard of it, and the practice is not restricted to northern Maine and Canada. What is considered "bad taste" to some is accepted as "tradition" to others, but if you're asking what I think of the idea, I'd have to say, "Not much."

Today's hand or something like it will be found in any book on play and has appeared many times in bridge columns.

It shows one of the standard safety plays. Playing at six no-trump, South has no worries at all, provided West does not hold all four clubs and he can guard against that by playing his king of clubs to start with. If East shows out, he can hold West to one club trick. If West shows out, he can also hold East to one club trick.

This should be an automatic play at rubber bridge, where the overtrick means practically nothing. But suppose this hand were being played in a good duplicate game. With modern point-count bidding, the six no-trump contract would be very normal and a declarer anxious for a top might start the club suit by playing out dummy's ace. With the hand in the box, he would wind up with a nice goose egg and a bad serve.

Bue suppose that East should hold all four clubs.

In that case the ace play will leave South in position to double finesse against East's queen-10 and our hero will make an overtrick and a top score to go with it.

Thus, a declarer in a duplicate game may decide that East is more likely to hold four clubs than West and try the dangerous play.

Our own feeling is that the safety play should be made in duplicate as well as in rubber bridge. We don't believe that all tables in any duplicate game would arrive at six no-trump. Someone would get to seven, someone else would stop short of one club trick, and we would not want to be the only six no-trump bidder with the minus score.

Just Three Talented People

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some television specials are drowned in production: huge sets, dozens of dancing girls and boys, a parade of stars. That won't be the case with "An Evening With Julie Andrews and Harry Belafonte." The NBC special on Sunday night—pre-empting "Bonanza"—will feature only Julie Andrews and Harry Belafonte, with an assist from Frenchman Michel Legrand. That's all. No Bushy Berkeley dance numbers. No locations in the Grand Canyon. Just three talented people doing their respective things.

That is the concept of Gower Champion, who produced, directed and choreographed the special, and Miss Andrews went along with it. She also submitted to Champion's taskmaster-ship, which is legendary in show business. After five weeks of intensive rehearsals on a bare stage at Goldwyn Studio, she underwent two full days of recording songs, then five days of taping the show in NBC's color studios at Burbank.

Does she enjoy the hard work? "Not particularly," she admitted during a rehearsal break. "I've had most of this year off, and I must say I enjoyed it immensely. I hated going back to work. And the fact that I don't have to begin another picture until next February is keeping my spirits up."

She isn't doing the special for the money. Rights to the show will be owned by Hathaway House, a home for retarded children which is a favorite charity of hers.

Then why do a television special? "I guess it's largely a matter of wanting to break away from the rather plastic quality of being a movie star. In films everything is so carefully done, so expertly planned. I think it healthy to break away from that and to show that there are other aspects of your career.

"And the size of the audience you can reach through television is staggering. When I did my last special, someone pointed out that more people saw it in one evening than saw 'My Fair Lady' on the stage throughout its history."

Julie seemed refreshed by her friend, Blake Edwards. The year's vacation, during which she said her major occupation was "chauffeur children." Before that, she had five years of steady film making, most of them long and tedious movies, and the strain was beginning to show.

Her last film was "Darling It. It is handsomely filmed and Lili," directed by her close funny and tuneful.

Two Men Arrested For Nixon Threats

MIAMI (AP) — Two men have been arrested in connection with threats on the life of President Nixon. Both threats were linked to the Vietnam war. Asst. U.S. Atty. Mike Osman said George W. Baker, 51, of Miami, was arrested on a charge of assaulting a federal officer. Osman said John Anthony Baker, 24, of Breezewood, Pa., was charged with threatening the life of the President. Osman said the two were not related. Both men, arrested here Thursday shortly before the President arrived for a weekend at his Key Biscayne retreat, were ordered held on $200,000 bond and both remained in jail. Osman said the Miami man wrote to Nixon in May and said if his son in Vietnam was killed he would kill every federal official he could find, from the President down to members of the local draft board. "Because the President was coming to Florida the Secret Service went to his house Thursday," Osman said, "and he invited them inside."

Astros Get a Day Off; Fly to Moon on Friday

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Everything was proceeding toward an on-time launch. Their countdown began at noon Friday and then went into a planned rest period early today and will not resume until 9 a.m. Sunday. The 31-hour "hold" was planned to avoid paying launch workers overtime amounting to at least $25,000. Before the count started, Dr. Kurt H. Debus, director of the Kennedy Space Center (KSC), urged moonport personnel to do their best to make the nation's second lunar landing mission a success. When the countdown resumes Sunday, launch workers will begin loading hydrogen and oxygen into the spacecraft modules. Friday's part of the count was devoted to the installation of explosive devices in the spacecraft and Saturn 3 rocket first stage. Conrad, Gordon and Bean Sunday receive their last major physical examination. They plan to spend the whole morning in the doctor's office.

Man Arrested For Narcotics

NEW PALTZ Joseph Penzato, 21, of Box 116A, New Paltz, was arrested by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department Friday and charged with criminal sale of a dangerous drug, a felony.

Deputy Donald Venaken had set out to pick up Penzato on an order of bail revoked by Judge Raymond Mino. The deputy had the New Paltz man under surveillance, and noticed him "selling something," according to the Sheriff's Department. When he was searched, it was found to be narcotic.

Klein Critical of Nixon For Election Eve Speech

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Lashing out at President Nixon for "harnessing the people of the country to their radio and television sets for a public utterance at the height of the political season," Democratic County Chairman Aaron E. Klein said today he will request Congress to take remedial action to prevent such occurrences in the future.

Klein's criticism was aimed at the choice of election eve for the President's speech on Vietnam. He asks legislation which would prevent the use of the public airwaves and facilities of private radio and television stations and channels without charge at a time when such activity, intended or not, might influence local, state and national elections. "This is not in the American tradition," he declared.

Klein said that when it is and hour the President did in deed for one half hour speak to the collective nation over radio and television lines and channels extending from border to border and coast to coast. This was at the very moment that the nation was poised for an election which was vital to the country and to most of the local communities. Men and women of all political parties had spent hundreds of millions of dollars, mostly of their own, and had devoted hundreds of hours in hard campaigning to convince the electorate of their respective merits.

"The President brought all this to a grinding halt and preempted prime radio and television time to discuss a matter which could have been discussed equally as well a week or two before at least a day or two in advance of Election Day. The President is a political figure as well as a public figure. In fact, he made studied efforts to win the election for members of his party."

"On the day after election, he was jubilant over the election of some members of his party. He cannot escape the fact that his appearance on radio and television on the eve of Election Day revealed himself. But the youth says he was shanghaied by police and the Shore Patrol because he was carrying a seabag and lacked identification."

Before Parker could be turned over to juvenile authorities in San Diego, he escaped from the hospital. He was found a short time later in front of the women's barracks, impersonating a sergeant. Parker's given hometown of Anderson is about 35 miles from Indianapolis, which was Jenkin's home, the Marines say. However, there has been nothing so far to link the two prior to the beginning of Parker's escapades.

Parker is now in the custody of San Diego juvenile authorities pending further investigation. Jenkin, meanwhile, has been put back on the AWOL list.

Boy Tries Man's Job In Marine Corps

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI)—Marine Pvt. Robert A. Jenkins, a recruit who joined in May of this year, has been AWOL since Oct. 20.

Authorities thought they had gotten him back after a 6-foot-2, 190-pound youth surrendered to Los Angeles police Oct. 23, identifying himself as the 18-year-old Jenkins.

After nearly two weeks of infantry training and 24 hours in the brig, the "new" Jenkins was unmasked as a 16-year-old imposter.

The youth, Ledell Parker of Anderson, Ind., posing as Jenkins, was turned over to the Shore Patrol and arrived Oct. 25 at Camp Pendleton by way of the Marine Recruit Depot in San Diego.

He began his short Marine career by being assigned to a basic infantry training battalion, but was given "office hours," a minor form of punishment, on Oct. 27 for his "Jenkins" three-day unauthorized absence.

Parker was assigned to Jenkins' old training company. But all the other members of the outfit were new and nobody noticed the difference. The youth answered to Jenkins' name at roll calls and signed it on the punishment log.

Parker was sent to the brig after "acting up" in a correctional unit. He complained of a nose bleed and feeling dizzy and a week ago Friday night went to the base hospital, where his act came to an end.

He told doctors he was not Jenkins and a comparison of dental records showed he was telling the truth. Marine spokesmen said this list.

A PLAIN AND UTILITARIAN KITCHEN, but one from which continental cuisine was served up at gala Hudson Valley banquets as the Vanderbilts feted their guests to lobster bisque, flamed canard à l'orange, chocolate mousse and other gourmet delicacies.

SPARELY FURNISHED BEDROOM in serving quarters contrasts dramatically with luxurious sleep-in furnishings above-stairs. For the maid: a sturdy rocker, simple chest, narrow brass bed and no-nonsense table. For milady: all the fancy canopies and imported frills that money could buy.

But Not So Elegant Below-the-Stairs

"BUT WHERE DID THEY COOK?"

The record shows this as the most frequently asked question by visitors to the luxurious and elegant Vanderbilt Mansion National Historic site at nearby Hyde Park.

Now visitors (at least those who come to marvel at the mansion on weekday mornings) will be able to find a visual answer to this question as part of their guided tour of the Vanderbilt residence.

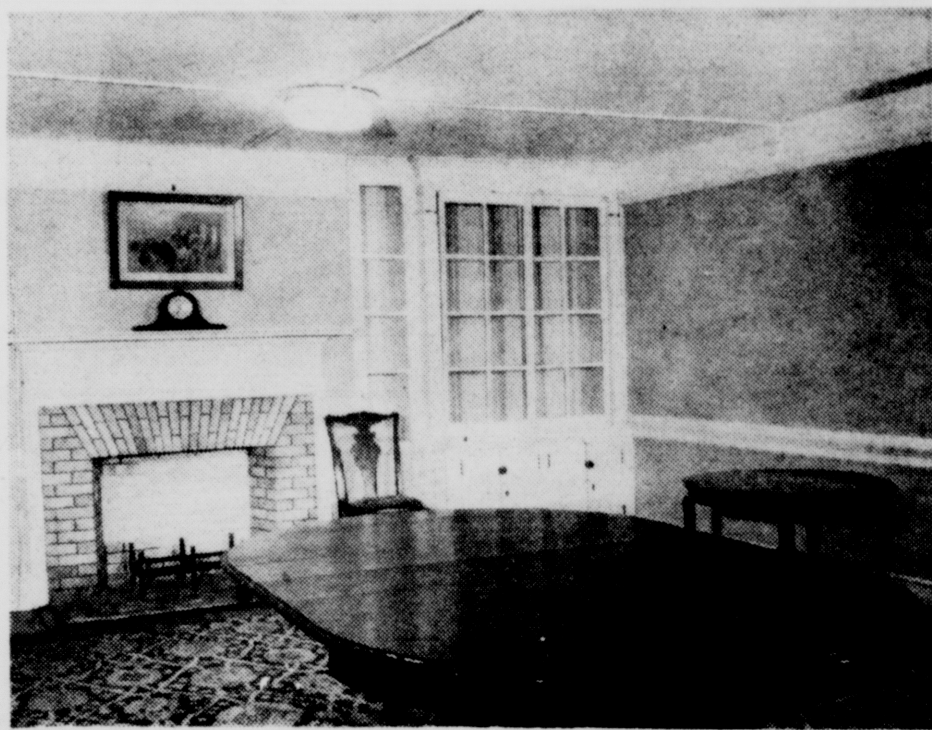

In addition to the kitchen (where they did indeed cook), other rooms just opened to the public for the first time are the laundry, servant's dining room, and a typical servant's bedroom. These rooms are now a part of the tour on a limited, morning only, Monday through Friday basis.

Although changes have been made below stairs in the basement since the death of the last Vanderbilt scion-in-residence in 1938, such obviously avid visitor interest in the service areas of the mansion convinced the Department of Interior's National Park Service to open them as they are. Meanwhile, work will continue to restore the rooms to their 1938 appearance.

Among the objects in the basement certain to catch the eyes of female visitors is a large "Dry Room" rack-type laundry dryer.

If you'd like to see how the wealthy lived in days gone by and contrast their regal surroundings with the simpler life style of the cook and the butler and the upstairs maid, plan a visit to Hyde Park's Vanderbilt Mansion. The site is on Route 9 in Hyde Park, and it's open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. every day during the current season.

And bear in mind as you tour that Frederick William Vanderbilt was a captain of industry when he built this mansion, one of the most magnificent homes ever commissioned in America. Next door to the Franklin Delano Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park, it commands a broad view of the Hudson River; was built at a cost of more than $2-million in 1898 and designed by Stanford White; and has been maintained by the Federal Government since 1940.

THE HIRED HELP took meals adorned only with the bare necessities this dining room provided. Elsewhere in the mansion, tycoons and their ladies lingered for hours over exquisite crystal and china, eating their way through course after course beneath massive chandeliers. No ESP Needed to Predict Sure Thing

COSTUME DIRECTOR BILL CHAVIS puts finishing touches to gown worn by actress Betty Friday, who plays the schoolmarm in "The King and I," musical slated for presentation Nov. 20, 21 and 22 at J. Watson Bailey School here. (Freeman photo by Bob Haines).

One does not have to be possessed of extra sensory perception to predict that the local Coach House Players will have a hit on their hands later this month.

That would be the group's upcoming production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's oriental musical, "The King and I."

Director Bill Skilling tells us rehearsals are progressing smoothly, and that cast members have been hard at work preparing for the show since mid-September, when rehearsals began on a three day a week basis. Bud Gardner, CH president, affirms that ticket sales are booming. Scenery and props crews have their departments falling into place behind-the-scenes, and costume director Bill Chavis is concentrating on the many, elaborate outfits that must be prepared for the show. This musical represents one of the biggest challenges ever for the Players in terms of costuming, since the oriental finery of the Siamese royal court in 1860 must be recreated.

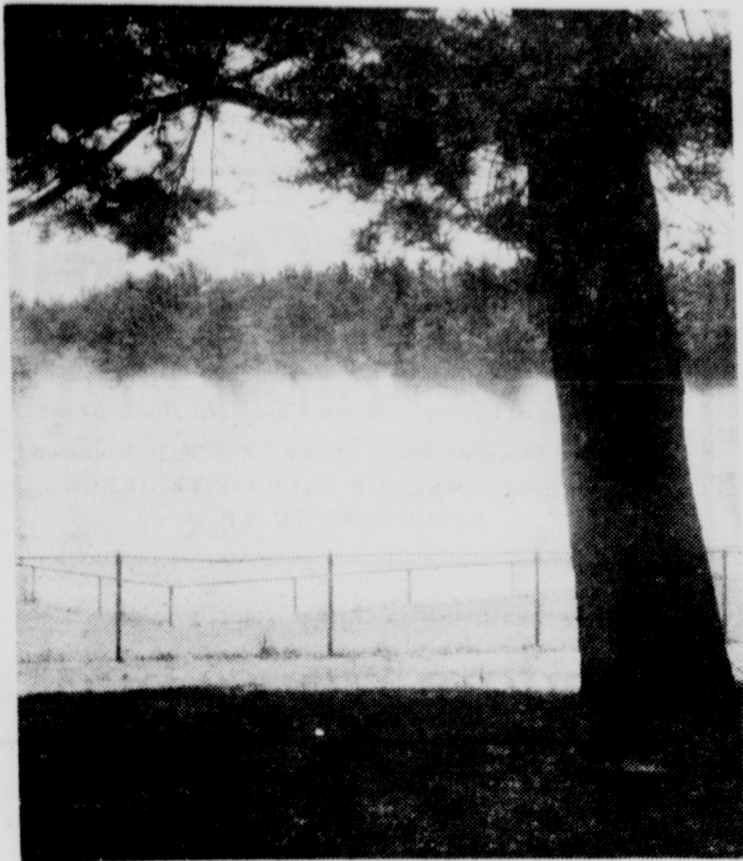

A Classical Musical

"The King and I" cast takes to the footlights at J. Watson Bailey School on the nights of Nov. 20, 21 and 22. What audiences will see will be a classic of high quality that ran for three full years on Broadway. What they will hear will be some of the finest music ever presented on the American stage, including the charming "Getting to Know You" and the beautiful "Hello Young Lovers."

In short, a hit in the making, with all proceeds going toward financing the Players annual scholarship to a high school student who has shown proficiency in one of the arts. With one hit assured and others on the way, better sign up for associate membership tickets, entitling you to see the entire CH season of productions for only six dollars. Send your check now to Coach House Players, 12 Augusta Street, Kingston.

WHEN A TRIO OF ARSONISTS invade their home, the Biedermanns (portrayed by Linda Hayden and Tom Pletto) whisper their anxiety at the turn of events. Scene is from "THE FIREBUGS," a Max Frisch play to be presented by The New Paltz Players on their SUNY campus from Nov.

are collecting in his attic, he graciously helps them string the fuse from one barrel to the next. The play concerns itself with a general attitude of our society.

Raymond Kurdt designed the sets and lights.

The cast is headed by Tom Pletto, as Biedermann with Byll Peoples, Steve Katz, and Richard Courtney as the arsonists. Linda Hayden plays Biedermann's wife, and Donna Lee Betz, their maid. Also included in the cast is the Fireman's Brigade which adds an exciting dimension to the play.

The box office at McKenna Theater is open for "The Firebugs" from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays through Friday, Nov.

New Paltz Players of State University College, New Paltz, will open a four day run of Max Frisch's "The Firebugs" Wednesday, Nov. 12 at the college's McKenna Theater.

Curtain time is 8:30 for all performances of the play, directed by Frank Kraat.

The Frisch play involves three arsonists who invade the household of Gottlieb Biedermann, a respectable German middle-class citizen. He becomes almost immediately aware that the three invaders are the arsonists who have been burning other buildings in his town, and he acts on the assumption that if he is friendly and gracious they will not set fire to his own house. When he sees the gasoline barrels they

She Challenged Nashville Sound

Folksinger Sonia Malkine, who cajoled all that talent dockside for the mid-September Hudson River Sloop festival in Kingston, is back home in Shady after touring the south.

The French-born songstress appeared at Tennessee's Vanderbilt University; found students responsive to her soft, pure voice and the sound of her non-amplified lute in spite of the fact that Vanderbilt is hemmed in by the Nashville sound.

She also sang at the National Folk Festival, held this year at the University of Tennessee, at Virginia's Hollins College, and for audiences at the University of Delaware.

The Woodstock singer will make her next public appearance tonight—back home in the mid-Hudson Valley. She'll be performing this evening at 9 p.m. at the Unitarian Coffee House, Poughkeepsie.

Local Violinist On Midwest Tour

Three concerts in the Midwest on Ball State's campus this past week utilized the talents of Thursday evening. The Port violinist William Oskay, Port Ewen graduate student is a talented member of the 73-piece orchestra which included such classical numbers on its three-concert programs as The Russian Easter Overture by Rimsky-Korsakoff, the Haffner Symphony by Mozart, and the Titan in the Hoosier State at Arlington Symphony by Gustav Mahler.

Oskay is a member of the Ball State University Symphony Orchestra which went on tour this week to present concerts in the Hoosier State at Arlington High School in Indianapolis and Highland High School in Anderson. Oskay's director and conductor is Charles A. Ansbacher, who has studied at Switzerland's Academy of Music and followed the orchestra's concert tria's Mozarteum in Salzburg.

An Internationally Famed Actor in His Greatest Role

Philip Hanson, one of this country's best-known Shakespearean actors, will be seen in The National Shakespeare Company's production of "The Tempest" at J. Watson Bailey School in Kingston on Monday, Nov. 24. Hanson has become well known in the U. S. where he has appeared in more than 30 Shakespearean roles across the country.

A totally professional actor, his role of Malvolio at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival has been commemorated with a Portrait Sculpture. Hanson is also internationally famous for his one-man concert readings of novelist Charles Dickens, poet Robert Browning, adventurer T. E. Lawrence, and scenes from Shakespeare. Recently he toured Arabia giving performances of his T. E. Lawrence program.

This season Hanson is on a 30,000 miles tour of the U. S.

A Boy and a Horn In Video Debut

Imagine trying to play a clarinet with the sniffles!

That's what nine year old Darren Luckfield will be doing on the home screens of America shortly. Darren, son of the Fred Luckfields, 14 Roe Drive, Hyde Park, has just completed two days in New York City on camera shooting for a cough syrup TV commercial. When it's released, viewers will see young Darren taking his cough syrup, pushing aside a flute player, and giving forth with a clarinet solo.

The Hyde Park younster is managed by Poughkeepsie's Estelle and Alfonso Studio, and the commercial is set for release shortly on all networks. Darren is a fourth grader at the Ralph R. Smith School; is active in the school band (where he plays clarinet without the sniffles); and studies tap and acrobatics outside of school. He's been seen in this area in Half a Sixpence, Thoroughly Modern Mille, The Sound of Music, and The Estelle and Alfonso Olympics.

Apes Revisited

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Maurice Evans, Kim Hunter and Linda Harrison will repeat their roles as simians when "Beneath the Planet of the Apes" begins rolling at 20th-Fox.

TV Movie Stars

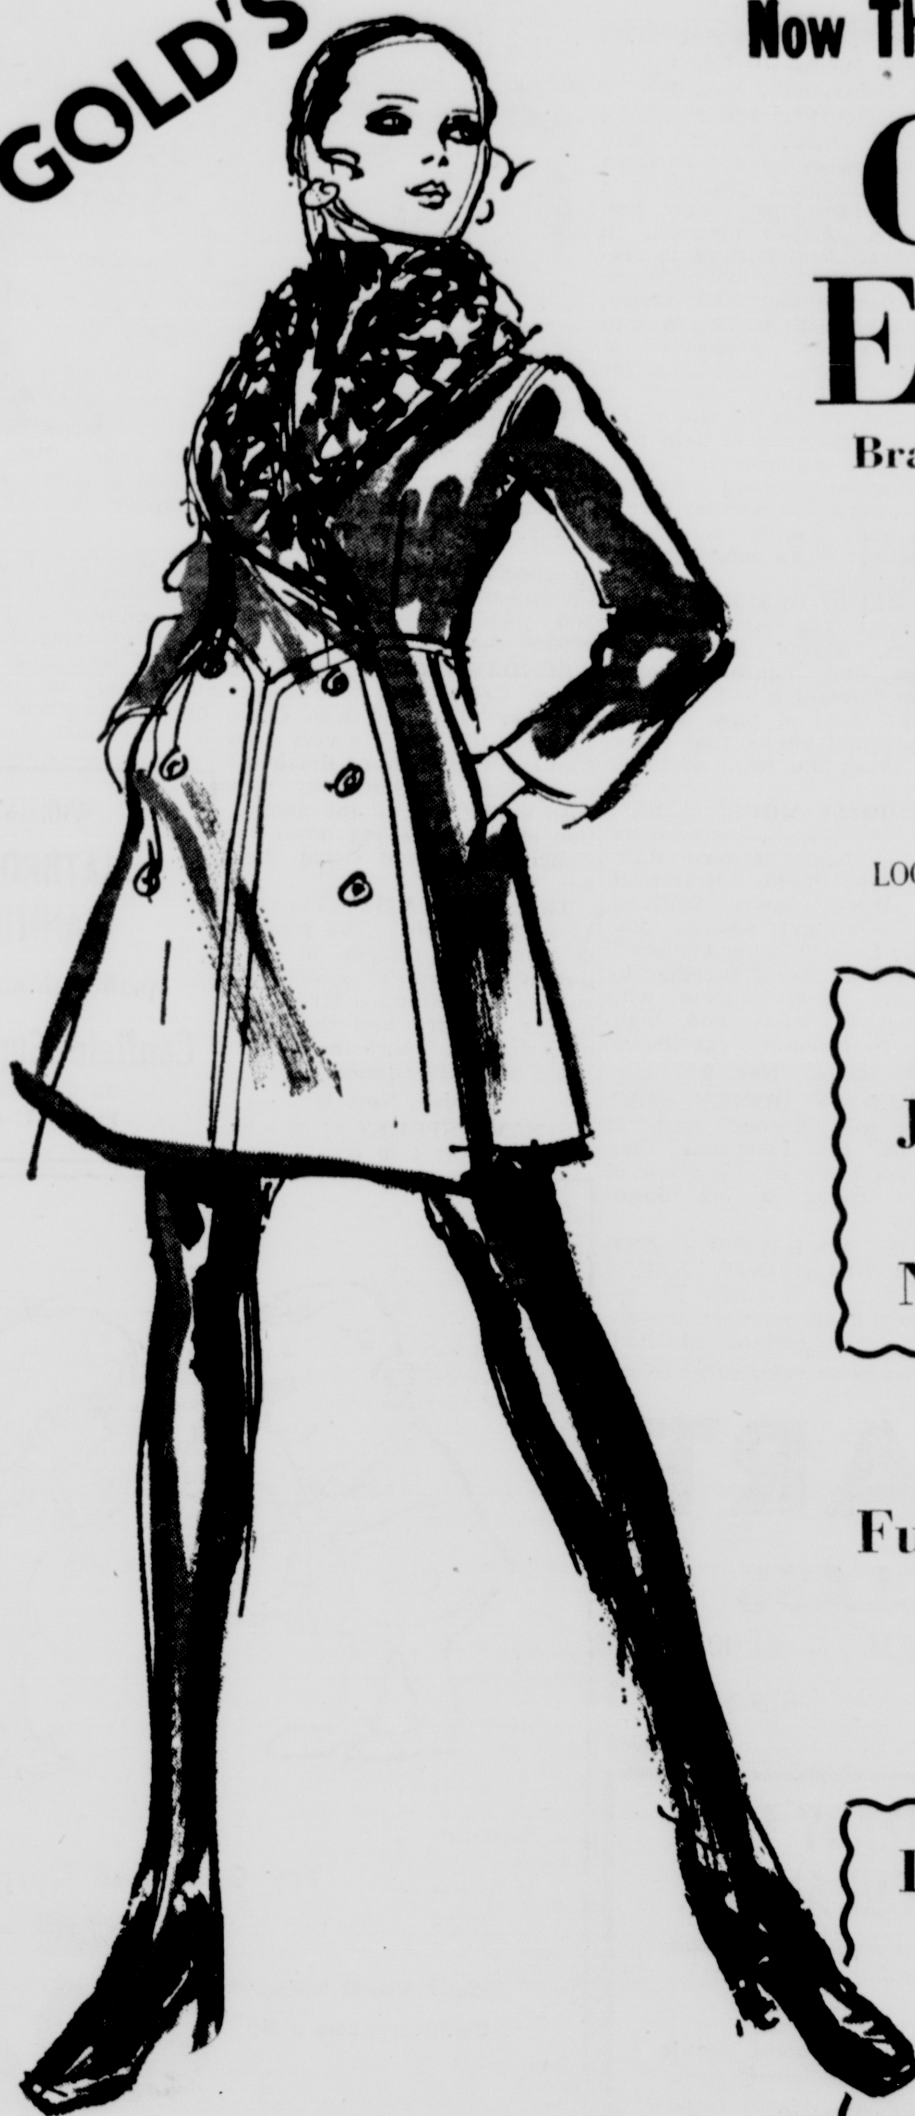

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Sean Garrison and Tippy Walker have been added to the 90-minute television movie, "Against Heaven's Hand."

and Canada with The National Shakespeare Company. And, fortunately, for Kingston area theatre-goers, the Student Government Organization at Ulster County Community College has booked NSC for a presentation of "The Tempest" at 8 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 24 at Kingston's J. Watson Bailey School.

Actor Hanson will be seen in one of his greatest roles, that of Prospero in "The Tempest." His other great role is said to be that of Arnolphe in "A School for Wives," although he has received comparable acclaim for performances of his own concert readings.

A Washingtonian by birth, Hanson holds BA and MA degrees from Washington State University and the University of Illinois. He has appeared in leading roles at the San Diego Shakespeare Festival, in the Boston Repertory, in concert performances in cities coast to coast, in Canada, and to high acclaim in New York performances at Lincoln Center and The Cooper Union. He will definitely complement NSC's production of "The Tempest" here, tickets for which are now on sale at the Office of the Director of Student Activities at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge.

Television

Out of the Past

Remember Russell Arms, who used to be on the Hit Parade along with Dorothy Collins, Gisele MacKenzie and Snooky Lanson? Well, he's playing a doctor in a forthcoming episode of Marcus Welby M.D. And Dolores Del Rio plays Elena Verdugo's mother in that same Welby episode. The beautiful Miss Del Rio, one of the phenomenons of our time, doesn't look old enough to play Johnnie Whitaker's mother!

Despite elaborate facilities at Hollywood TV studios for filming any kind of scene, it's often cheaper to go on location than it is to construct sets. Labor costs have risen 12 per cent over the past year. So when a recent episode of The Bold Ones needed a home setting, producer Jo Swerling whisked cast and crew to his house to save a bit on the budget.

Queried on the David Frost show about making another "Road" picture, Bob Hope said: "We'd have to find one that went downhill—for Crosby."

Pearl Bailey told the whole New York Mets team: "Fellas, I loved your TV series and I hope it'll be repeated every year from now on."

RANDOM THOUGHTS ON RECENT VIEWING:

Buddy Hackett seemed right at home on Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In. His rough-hewn humor went hand-in-glove with the program's format.

The formidable talent of Carolyn Jones, largely submerged on The Munsters, surfaced on this week's Mod Squad segment, easily the series' best show of the season.

Frank Sinatra's one-man show was a delight. He sang his way all the way back to "I Couldn't Sleep a Wink Last Night" and all the way up to "Going Out of My Head." For humor, there was a very funny sequence of scenes from his worst motion pictures.

A good collection of character studies, plus a hell-for-leather motorcycle race, made... Then Came Bronson well worth the tuning.

The big problem with Debbie Reynolds and the Sound of Children: the children involved were so carefully rehearsed there was none of that spontaneity that is so disarming.

Very exciting photography, a process called videospace which allows great effects, like people being swallowed by a whale, was the highlight of NET Playhouse's avant-garde production of "Heimskringla!"

PICK OF THE PROGRAMS IN THE WEEK AHEAD:

Today, Sat., Nov. 8

WELCOME TO SESAME STREET (NBC, 5 p.m.). Will wonders never cease? Imagine one TV network producing a show to introduce a new program on another network. In an unprecedented move to create the largest possible audience for a forthcoming NET series, NBC is telecasting "This Way to Sesame Street," a preview of "Sesame Street," new show for preschool children. "Street" is an experiment in the use of TV and its techniques to help prepare young children for formal schooling by teaching them the ABC's, word and number recognition and problem solving in the context of an entertainment format.

ON BEING BLACK (Channel 17, 7 p.m.). Top comedians Dick Gregory, "Moms" Mabley, Stu Gilliam and Timmie Rogers star on "Laughing to Keep from Crying." Lots of pure comedy and personal humor that sometimes takes the form of bitter satire.

SATURDAY MOVIE (NBC, 9 p.m.). This film boasts such top actors as Joan Crawford, Richard Kiley, Roddy McDowall, Ossie Davis, Barry Sullivan, Sam Jaffe and George Macready. Called "Night Gallery," it's a trilogy bound together by a bizarre bit of business, with imaginative twists and highlighted by cinematic excellence.

Sunday, Nov. 9

WORLD OF DISNEY (NBC, 7:30 p.m.). Second part of "Charlie, the Lonesome Cougar" has a remarkable scene of Charlie riding a log downstream.

JULIE ANDREWS AND HARRY BELAFONTE (NBC, 9 p.m.). Julie's first new TV appearance in three years, a well-paced, easy-to-look-at-and-listen-to special directed by Gower Champion. Julie and Harry sing and play instruments from around the world.

JOHNNY CARSON plays a drunk called Biff, Maureen Stapleton plays Fat Momma and George C. Scott plays Fat Daddy in a sketch called "Cat on a Hot Tin Summer," when "Johnny Carson's Repertory Company in an Evening of Comedy" is presented Wednesday, Nov. 12 at 8 p. m. over NBC-TV.

SUNDAY MOVIE (ABC, 9 p.m.). Crim cloak and dagger work in "The Spy Who Came In From the Cold," a very good film starring Richard Burton as a cynical, unglamorous spy. Also in the cast of the adaptation of a best selling novel are Claire Bloom and Oskar Werner.

THE ADVOCATES (Channels 13 & 17, 10 p.m.). The growing demand for reform of auto liability insurance systems—a subject that affects a $10-billion-a-year industry and the great majority of Americans—is debated with articulation.

Monday, Nov. 10

SESAME STREET (1:30 a.m. and again at 4:40 p.m., Channels 13 & 17). Premiere of an innovation series of daily hour-long children's TV workshop programs using the most modern TV techniques and famous entertainers to facilitate learning for pre-school children. Set in a mythical place called Sesame Street, the show allows the youthful audience to play a role in creating a TV program

Thriller With a Twist

THE BRASS GO-BETWEEN.
By Oliver Bleek. Morrow.
$5.95.

The flourishing field of fiction in thrillers (suspense, adventure, espionage, mystery) has turned up a new twist in this novel.

Its hero, Philip St. Ives, is a man with an odd and dangerous occupation. He is a professional go-between, a negotiator between the underworld and those who have had jewelry, art, securities or other valuables stolen from them. He arranges the ransom exchange for a fee from the robbed.

The loot this time is a centuries' old brass shield from Africa, very valuable as a work of art, and of even more value as a symbol of national pride in an African nation that is being disrupted by civil war.

The shield has been stolen from a temporary exhibit in a Washington museum. St. Ives' assignment is to buy it back from the thieves, while an African agent is trying to get it away from either the thieves or St. Ives.

The publisher says this is the first of several thrillers to be written by an established American writer of suspense novels under the pseudonym of Oliver Bleek.

This story makes a very promising start on what may develop into a new series of smartly concocted yarns. The author has a sharp, polished style and his hero is full of dry wit, intelligence and savoir faire. This is fiction with a flair, well above the norm for thrillers.

Miles A. Smith

SHIRLEY MacLAINE plays a lovable dance hall girl wanting to be loved in "SWEET CHARITY," an eyeful of a movie-musical now playing at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

ERNEST BORGNINE is a gunman who only misses once in "The Wild Bunch," a western about aging American outlaws and Mexican bandits. The film is now co-featured at Kingston's Community Theatre.

MOVIES

Sweet Charity

"Sweet Charity," now playing at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre, is exactly the kind of shot in the arm needed for the world of movie musicals. It's done with imagination, intelligence, and breathtaking cinematic flair.

Director Bob Fosse, who's been tops on the stage and makes his screen debut with this movie, is one man who understands the difference between film and theatre, as well as the difference between films today and what was acceptable in the past.

"Sweet Charity" is a constantly exploding firecracker, cleverly utilizing New York backgrounds, and weaving story, music, choreography, and acting performances into a fast-moving, colorful splash of joy.

Marvelous MacLaine

Shirley MacLaine is marvelous, endearing, and convincing as the dance hall girl who wants to be loved. Both she and the film manage to be showy, tender, and honest at the same time. Here's a movie with a highly literate screenplay and one that allows acting ability to excel.

This is a musical that can be enjoyed for fabulous numbers, plenty of humor, Miss MacLaine at her best, and other enlivening performers including Sammy Davis Jr., Ricardo Montalban, Chita Rivera, Paula Kelly and Stubby Kaye.

A spirited, lavish musical extravaganza, it's the old story of a tarnished dance hall hostess with a heart of gold, but it's been done in such a big, tune-crammed way, it emerges with a new freshness. Comedy alternate with tremulous smiles and mascara-stained tears. Sammy Davis has a specialty number that's a high spot, and outstanding, too, are "Hey Big Spender," a number by a line-up of taxi dancers, and

"Rich Man's Frug," a fast-stepping nightclub act. "Charity" is also the only musical we can remember in which every lyric is so clearly enunciated that each word can be heard plainly. That alone is a new record.

Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid

Paul Newman and Robert Redford play the title roles in this memorable tale of two legendary outlaws who take the ways of the Old West to Bolivia. It's currently playing a first run in this area at the Community Theatre in Catskill and it's worth every mile of motoring involved for a trip up to see it.

Newman is easy-going, good-natured Butch Cassidy (a planner of heists), and Redford is the Sundance Kid, that expert gunman of legend whose exploits made headlines in the early 1900's. The pair of outlaws rarely have anything to show for their efforts except their popularity in news stories, dime novels and on the nickelodeon.

All they want is an opportunity to earn their living outside the law, without killing anyone. But after they gleefully hold up a Union Pacific train, both on its outgoing and return trip, a mysterious posse begins tracking them all over the Southwest. So they light out for Bolivia, taking the Kid's school teacher girlfriend (Katharine Ross) along.

Just Like Tourists

Enroute to South America, they have a hilarious time in New York as ordinary tourists, and their experience with hold-ups in Bolivia are equally laughable. Butch and Sundance go on pleasantly lifting a payroll here and a silver shipment there, until the inevitable day when they are recognized.

One of the finest westerns in the several years, the film boasts delightful scenery, wonderfully imaginative camera work and a cleverly appropriate score — all highlighting the witty script and memorable performances.

The Wild Bunch

The blood and gore runs thick as strawberry jam in this raucous western about a band of freebooting bandits riding for profit on both sides of the Texas-Mexican border near the turn of the century. There's plenty of action and, admittedly, lots of it is violent. But the performances by William Holden, Ernest Borgnine and Robert Ryan are faultless, and the film itself is one of the better westerns of the year.

Arguing against its detractors, who found it grim and horrifying, we remain firm in our conviction that it paints a vast canvas of the waning West at a time when a few men still lived by their own moral code, even in the knowledge that it was already outmoded.

This Troupe Explodes Like TNT in Onstage Mime

An unusual theatrical happening and a premiere of a new work will highlight "Invitational Ballet" this Sunday night, Nov. 9 at Poughkeepsie High School.

The evening of entertainment will feature the Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company in its latest work entitled "Every Man." This new ballet, choreographed by Estelle and Alfonso, is based on the famed medieval morality play, whose author has ever been anonymous.

Invitational Ballet will also feature the Now Teen Mime Troupe, just back from a tour of colleges, coffee houses, schools and theatres, in a presentation geared for the "in crowd" simply because it features today's happenings enacted by today's youth in a new medium of entertainment.

Topical Dialogues

With explosive appeal, especially for the teenager and young adult, the material used by the Mime Troupe has also been a success with older audiences. What the TNT Troupe has to say encompasses comedy and tragedy; always enthralls audiences looking for the "unusual." TNT deals with such topics as drugs, pollution, plane hijacking, and other modern day doings—all done in mime dialogue and dance.

The troupe made its area debut last summer at Hyde Park Playhouse; is directed by Benny Rechel; features a cast composed entirely of teenagers whose theatrical experience, when combined, equals 80 years.

The cast in the premiere of "Every Man" includes a group of talented dancers portraying such roles as Every Man, Strength, Beauty, Worldly Goods, Kin and Cousin, Fellowship, Death, Good Deeds, Knowledge, and the Five Senses. New sets have also been created for the production.

Invitational Ballet is produced annually free of charge to the public as a cultural contribution by the Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company. Curtain time for this special program will be 8 p.m.

"The Wild Bunch," in all its chaotic frenzy is currently featured on the double bill at Kingston's Community Theatre.

Harper

This smart, entertaining, detective yarn recaptures the classy spirit of Bogart-type films of the '40s. It stars Paul Newman as a tough, dashing, wonderful appealing private eye going through heck and high water to unravel the case of a missing rich husband.

The film offers lots of high gloss and slick performances by Lauren Becall, Julie Harris, Arthur Hill, Janet Leigh and Pamela Tiffin, along with the always great Shelley Winters. A rerun, but a dandy, it's now co-featured at Kingston's Community Theatre.

The Further Perils Of Laurel and Hardy

This second compilation of Laurel and Hardy antics is the featured film at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. It's made up of three shorts and excerpts from the comics' longer films, made from 1915 through the 20's. You'll see L&H's individual screen beginnings and the early days of their partnership. Along with Stan and Ollie's shenanigans, there are glimpses of other bygone funny men — Charlie Chase, Edgar Kennedy, the Keystone Kops. Music is appropriately nostalgic and adds to the fun. A pleasant running commentary supplements the pantomime and sub-titles.

MOVIES

I Am Curious (Yellow)

Still holding its own after weeks and weeks at the New Paltz Cinema is this Swedish film with English titles. Sometimes probes absorbingly into the youthful mores of Sweden and youth's dissent from hypocrisy.

Very frank and explicit depiction of sexual relations utilized in the story. Will shock many, but others will find it less than shocking esthetically, culturally and morally in the light of what has happened in every area of thought and art in the last five or ten years.

Me, Natalie

Enjoying a second week at Hyde Park's Roosevelt Theatre is "Me, Natalie," in which Patty Duke plays a comical, touching, insecure 18 year old. Leaving home and her oversolicitous middle-class parents behind, she moves to Greenwich Village from Brooklyn. Eventually, she emerges with a fresh outlook on life after a brief love affair shows her she can be needed and wanted. As the ugly ducking of the title, Patty Duke turns in an excellent performance. Dining Out

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Time was when every motorist, tourist and traveller kept a weather eye out for the first roadside diner that could boast more than four trucks in its parking lot. Legend had it that truck drivers knew better than anybody where the best food was to be had, and the rest of us took their word for it by slamming on the brakes and turning in quick when a row of Mack trucks was spotted beneath a glowing neon sign.

So, whatever happened to the spotlessly clean, comfortably homey diners of yesteryear, with their rock bottom prices and inspired food reminiscent of grandma's cooking?

A very, very few are still around somewhere out in the trackless wilds. But more often than not, the diner has moved in from off the highways and byways to the heart or near heart of the city. Usually, efficiency has replaced hominess, and chrome and formica have been substituted for whatever old-fashioned warmth people with poor memories still think early diners boasted.

When Things Are Tight

Even so, people who do eat out probably eat out oftener at diners than in gourmet restaurants. Fast service appeals to on-the-run patrons, and quick breakfasts, lunches and dinners attract busy shoppers and others on a tight schedule.

One of the busiest, boomingest diners in all of Ulster County is the Park Diner at 37 Albany Avenue here in Kingston. What always impresses us there is that no motion whatsoever is wasted by the cook when a breakfast order is being processed. On your table in a flash are eggs scrambled, eggs once over lightly, eggs any style, wheatcakes with sausages, wheatcakes with bacon, French Toast, Cinnamon Toast — you name it and, WHISK, it's yours.

And if grandma's homemade pie is missing these days, such undiner-like exotics as Shish-Ka-Bob with rice and Filet Mignon are available. As diners go — and the Park Diner has gone far — this cheerfully plasticized establishment offers a menu of such length that three pages are required for the printing.

Age of the Eclair

Lamb stew has always been a favorite at diners and the Park retains this standby as one of its specialties. A far cry from the old "on the road" days, however, are such items as shrimp cocktail, London Broil, and chocolate eclair, a delicacy no hard-bitten truck driver of the past would have deigned to lift with his oil-smudged fingers.

Diners have never been particularly noted for their decor, but the plastic and the chrome seem more pleasantly acceptable at the Park than in most such environments. Gold-spattered tile has been utilized to good advantage, as have the lark imitation woods used. The chandeliers emulate elegance; are a welcome relief from the garish fluorescent lights usually found in diners.

It all adds up to a friendly atmosphere and service that's super fast.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

We'd consider it a gross understatement to describe Jamaica Inn on Latham-Schenectady Road as "different." Unique would be more accurate. Where else can one saunter through an entrance to find musical combs perched in a tree house amid real rubber and banana trees? To say Jamaica Inn's clientele "goes ape" when those swingers stir "out of their tree" can be confirmed there . . . word for word.

Wicker furniture, a door in the stone wall leading nowhere, colorful caged parrots (artificial), a ceiling that looks like wall-to-wall carpet, and then up-the-down-stairs to fishnet bar where a friendly bartender explains workings of oil 'n silicon conversation piece that disintegrates and reforms the way mercury does in chemistry lab.

General assistant manager and banquet overseer, Steve Greene, son of Kingston's Dr. and Mrs. Murray Greene, has been welcoming to the Jamaica such local diners as Art London,

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seidel, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goldstein, Jim DiPeri, the Arthur Motzkis, Milt Wissock, Tom Greco . . . all attracted by the restaurant's celebrated Sunday smorgasbord.

Sir Henry Morgan room is private, elaborate, intimate, offering discotheque and off-beat live entertainment Fridays and Saturdays with exotic individualized menus for post meridian functions. If there's a request, one of staff will play little-ole-wine-maker and escort you through the wine room.

Special for theatre-goers and other goers is the buffet supper (usually Tuesday through Friday). Add one of the Jamaican "farewell and bon voyage" deserts and any contented diner can be led to believe the Queen Elizabeth is docked outside — near the waterfall — ready to take him aboard.

Amid such a south sea island setting of wicker wreaths and curio bric-a-brac, it wouldn't be too far "ashore" to foresee future weekday "zootique" where haute cuisine gourmets could purchase lizard shoes or alligator bag while shedding some authentic crocodile tears when sailing time arrived.

At any rate, next time you breeze in ask for Steverino for that extra special, homey Kingstonian touch.

Duck season's here again and party chatter at Governor Clinton centered for a bit around those web-footed fellows. Seems Cay DiDonna has a pond behind her home and hubby Lou's had an urge to people it with you-know-what. Recently he came home with six feathered friends. One mallard suddenly passed out of the picture and Lou felt so crushed he rushed corpus delicti to vet for autopsy. Cay claims cause is still unknown but "autopsy cost more than duck." A snapping turtle playing Madame Guillotine got number two when he ducked his bill under H2O; and number three's absence is undetermined . . . but if you see a tiny toddler walking a leashed pet which has tendency to "bark" with a quick-quack accent . . .

Election's barely over but Stockade Restaurant's non-imbibing, politically-inclined bartender Jimmy Carroll's already contemplating '71. Ah, politics! 'Tis a fever in the blood. (And did you note bevy of "belles" on '69 ballot?). . . . It's a fact. Horseback riding buff Walt Whipple finally talked St. Peter's Father Daniel Croston into equestrian sport and, speaking of that bearded padre, since giving Sir Gillette the air, he looks like he stepped straight out of Book of Genesis. . . . Don't forget Hudson Valley's Philharmonic's wine and cheese tasting party Sunday 5 to 7 at Governor Clinton Hotel. Hear tell everybody's going. And if you're real good they might even let you pour.

Cheese and Wine Make For a Convivial Fete

Aromatic and tasty cheese from every corner of the globe and sparkling wine will be served up Sunday, Nov. 9 in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

That's because it's party time again and the party in this instance is the always pleasant event sponsored by Ulster County Council of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society at its Annual Wine and Cheese Tasting Party.

This yearly event is always a "must" on any social calendar because of its relaxed and convivial air. The 1969 edition is being chaired by Robert Schneller, who's handling the fete for the fourth straight year.

In addition to mounds of cheese and cases of wine, the party offers fine music, inspired floral decorations and an art exhibit. Philharmonic Board members and other community celebrities will pour and serve.

Tickets for the event are available now.

If you've never been before, go this year. If you've never missed one, you certainly don't need our recommendation to know it's a Kingston highlight in any given season.

Let's Go Hunting for Diamonds the Herkimer Way

Empire Staters like to boast, "Our State has everything." And . . . more often than not . . . it's true. Take our word for it. New York State even offers "diamonds" for amateur and professional collectors to hunt. But before dreams of untold wealth begin to fill your mind, you should know that the diamonds under discussion are Herkimer diamonds. Those would be beautifully formed quartz crystals that merely resemble well-cut authentic diamonds. The abundant deposits in the Herkimer area are the richest in quartz crystals in the eastern U.S. These crystals had their beginnings almost half a billion years ago when their bedrock began to form in a shallow sea that then covered the area. The limey sediments were slowly pressed down by thousands of feet of additional sediment to form the dolostone rock strata. Sea water seeped through the pores on the rock and often created cavities by dissolving part of the rock. Millions of years later, water rich with silica filled these cavities. With the passage of time, this water evaporated or drained away, leaving the silica which formed the quartz crystals. Today's prospectors for Herkimer diamonds often crack open ordinary-looking lumps of dolostone and find cavities containing these crystals. Many of them are found to have grown around bits of blackish matter which resembles anthracite coal. Although this black matter usually mars the beauty of the crystals, it sometimes leaves smoky phantoms that enhance their beauty. Some rare crystals even contain gas or air bubbles that float inside. The most perfect specimens are usually less than an inch in length, but larger ones, such as the 16-inch "king of diamonds," have been discovered. How are Herkimer diamonds mined? The collecting methods range from casually looking along rock outcrops to shoveling, blasting, bulldozing and screening. If you're in the Herkimer area, take a little time to go diamond mining. It's fun, and the rewards are truly beautiful.

Now Art for the 1970s

A one-man exhibit by Carl Weis, assistant professor of art at Keene (N.H.) State College is now on view at Vassar College Art Gallery, Poughkeepsie. The new show is the second in a series of five, entitled "Forecasts 69-70," designed to bring to the college gallery works of artists responsive to and representative of this generation. Exhibits are intended to demonstrate not only what is now happening in art but what the decade of the '70s may produce. The current exhibit presents a new and varied group of cool and controlled abstract shapes. Many of the 19 paintings invade the spectator's space and suggest a new dimension and a new potential for the abstract image.

Weis, also coordinator of Thorne Art Gallery at Keene State, is now participating in an unusual community-studio experiment in London. Sponsored by a group of leading British artists, the project provides low-rent studio space to nearly 100 artists in a converted 19th century warehouse. He is one of the few Americans whose application to participate in the project was accepted. Vassar Art Gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.
